Hoffa Guilty On 2 Counts, Teamster Boss Will Appeal

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) Teamsters' President James R. Hoffa was convicted Wednesday — the first time in five federal trials—of trying to fix a federal court jury.

Hoffa, stocky leader of the nation's largest labor union, sat in stunned silence as jury foreman Hal W. Bullen of Chattanooga read the verdict — guilty on two counts and innocent of a third. He said he will appeal.

The conviction brought personal congratulations to prosecutors from Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, who Hoffa has long accused of carrying on what he called a personal vendetta against him.

"We did not get a fair trial," Hoffa told newsmen. "This makes a farce out of democracy."

Hoffa was convicted of aiding three other men, found guilty along with him, in trying to fix the jury which heard his 1962 trial on conspiracy charges in Nashville.

"Are you going to appeal, Jimmy?" asked someone in the courtroom, as U.S. Marshal Harry Mansfield took Hoffa and the others convicted into technical custody.

"Of course, we'll appeal," snapped Hoffa. "What do you think?"

Hoffa faces up to 10 years in prison and $10,000 in fines if the convictions, on two charges, stand up. Two businessmen were acquitted along with him on the third charge.

All six were accused of trying to bribe and corrupt the Nashville jury, from which three jurors or prospective jurors were dismissed after reports someone tried to contact them.

Others convicted were Ewing King, former president of the Nashville Teamsters local; Larry Campbell, Detroit Teamsters business agent, and his uncle, Thomas E. Parks, a Nashville handyman.

5 Years

Each of them—Convicted on only one count — faces a maximum of five years in prison and $5,000 in fines.

Acquitted were Nicholas Tweel of Huntington, W. Va., and Allen Dorfman of Chicago.

The jury, which deliberated a total of 5 hours and 40 minutes, received the case after six long weeks of complicated testimony at 7:25 p.m. Tuesday. The verdict was read at 2 p.m., only 20 minutes after the end of the lunch recess.

The jury convicted Hoffa, Parks and Campbell on a charge that Hoffa aided the other two in offering a $10,000 bribe to the son of Gratin Fields, one of the jurors dismissed from the Nashville trial. Fields, Parks and Campbell are Negroes.

Promotion Influence

The jury convicted Hoffa and King of a charge that Hoffa aided King in offering a promotion in the state highway patrol to State Trooper James Paschal of Woodbury, Tenn., whose wife also was dismissed as a 1962 juror.

The jury acquitted Hoffa, Tweel and Dorfman of a charge that Hoffa helped Tweel and Dorfman in relaying a jury list to a Nashville bartender, with instructions to try to contact the jurors.

Tweel smiled fleetingly, then resumed a stolid appearance as the jury declared him innocent. Dorfman grinned broadly when his verdict was announced.

"I have nothing to say for the moment," Tweel told newsmen.

King's wife and the couple's little girl, both in court for the verdict, were red-eyed from wiping away tears. Hoffa's family also was in the courtroom, but had no comment.

Hoffa's lawyer, Harry Berke of Chattanooga, was asked if he was surprised by the verdict. "Not particularly," he said, then refused to say anything more.

No Comment

James Haggerty, Hoffa's ailing Detroit lawyer who missed the morning in court but was on hand for the verdict, had nothing to say.

'I Hope The SOB Dies,' Ruby Quoted

DALLAS (AP) — Jack Ruby was pictured by a policeman Wednesday as shooting Lee Harvey Oswald, trying vainly to send a second bullet into his body, and finally crying, "I hope the son of a bitch dies."

The testimony from Dallas police officer J. R. Leavelle climaxed a courtroom day that began when the 52-year-old Ruby pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to the Nov. 24 slaying of Oswald, President Kennedy's accused assassin. The trial resumes Thursday.

The defense contends Ruby, operator of a Dallas strip-tease joint, was in a mental blackout when he killed Oswald and didn't know what he was doing.

Trailed Oswald

Earlier, it was suggested through state testimony that Ruby may have trailed Oswald for at least 20 hours before he shot him. Witnesses indicated Ruby kept close track of police plans to move Oswald from one jail to another. It was during such a transfer that Ruby killed him.

Leavelle was the man whom countless Americans saw beside Oswald as he fell mortally wounded while newspaper photographers and television cameras recorded the dramatic scene.

Leavelle's left wrist was handcuffed to Oswald's right wrist as he was being taken from the basement of Dallas police headquarters two days after the presidential assassination.

Cop Hears

The officer said he heard Ruby's remark about hoping Oswald would die while the policeman was administering to the dying shooting victim.

On cross-examination, the defense went at once to the subject of the remark.

Q. That was said, wasn't it, after someone else said, "Jack, you son of a bitch, you shot Oswald?"

A. I didn't hear that.

Q. It might have been in response to someone saying, "Jack you son of a bitch, you shot Oswald?"

A. You may assume that.

Q. He never said, "I shot Oswald," did he?.

A. I never heard him say that.

Q. He could have been saying, "I hope he dies," in response to a lot of people saying Oswald had been shot?

A. That's possible.

Defense Move

The defense attempted to establish that when Ruby tried to pull the trigger a second time, he was being overwhelmed and the gun was no longer pointed at Oswald but at the floor.

The defense has implied that Ruby was in some-sort of muscular spasm when he pulled the trigger.

The trial began Feb. 17. Wednesday's testimony was the first.

Leavelle, a husky, dark-haired policeman, said Ruby, 52, took about two quick steps from a crowd of spectators Nov. 24 and put a single bullet into Oswald's abdomen.

Immediately after the shooting, Ruby was overwhelmed and driven to the floor by policemen.

"What are the facts as to whether he was still trying to pull the trigger?" Leavelle was asked.

"The right hand was still contracting on the gun as though he was trying to fire another shot," the witness replied.

Asked to identify Ruby, Leavelle pointed to the defendant, a Dallas strip-tease joint operator, and said, "He's the gentleman sitting at the middle table."

The trial began Feb. 17. The first testimony was heard Wednesday after Ruby entered a plea of innocent by reason of insanity.

Early state testimony suggested that Ruby may have been on Oswald's trail some 20 hours before he actually shot him to death.

Two state witnesses placed Ruby outside the Dallas County jail when a crowd gathered in midafternoon of Nov. 23 in anticipation of Oswald's transfer there from police headquarters.

Crowd Described

The actual transfer, however, did not take place until the next day and at its outset Ruby put a single fatal bullet into Oswald's abdomen.

"Was that an ugly crowd, a murmuring crowd, a sinister crowd?" chief defense attorney Melvin M. Belli asked one of the witnesses, Sgt. D. V. Harkness, on cross-examination.

"No, sir, it was an orderly crowd," replied the police officer, who took the stand in uniform as the trial's eighth witness.

"Did Ruby appear any different than the others?" Belli asked.

"No, sir," Harkness said.

Earlier, another witness, Wes Wise, a newsman for KRLD radio and television in Dallas, told of seeing Ruby in the vicinity of the county jail the afternoon after Kennedy's assassination. Wise said he discussed with Ruby the fact that two small Western saddles, intended as gifts for the Kennedy children, were left behind in Dallas after the assassination.

"I mentioned taking pictures of them and I saw tears in his eyes," Wise added.

"Did he appear excited?" Alexander said.

"I wouldn't say he was excited," Wise replied. "I would say he was touched."

Ruby Cry?

"Did Jack break down and cry?" defense attorney Joe Tonahill asked during cross-examination on the incident.

"I wouldn't describe him as breaking down," Wise said. "Tears came to his eyes and he was touched."

The defense contendss that Ruby suffered a chronic mental condition and that the shock of the presidential assassination sent him into a state of blackout during which he killed Oswald without knowing what he was doing.

The first business of the day was Ruby's arraignment. Standing two feet in front of the defendant, Dist. Atty. Henry M. Wade read the charge that Ruby "with malice aforethought did kill Lee Harvey Oswald by shooting him with a gun."

"Mr. Ruby, how do you plead to the indictment?" Judge Brown asked.

Not Guilty

"Not guilty," replied Ruby in a low voice, standing straight and with his hands rigidly against his sides. Belli interjected a plea also of innocent by reason of insanity.

5 Nations Asked To Man Peace Force On Cyprus

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. Security Council unanimously authorized Secretary-General U Thant on Wednesday to send a peace force and mediator to Cyprus for three months.

Thant sent formal requests immediately to five countries to supply troops.

He moved swiftly also for agreement on a mediator. He called in delegates of Cyprus, Britain, Turkey and Greece for separate conferences on this and other aspects of the Cyprus problem.

The requests for troops went to Canada, Sweden, Finland, Ireland and Brazil. A spokesman for Thant said that use of British troops—now on Cyprus enforcing a shaky cease-fire—also was contemplated. The goal is a 10,000-man force.

The spokesman said replies to the request were being awaited.

New violence flared on Cyprus between Turkish and Greek Cypriots before the council acted. Two Turkish and one Greek Cypriot were wounded before British forces restored order. A Turkish Cypriot leader expressed hope the force would be dispatched as quickly as possible.

By approving a compromise resolution, the council hoped to end the threat of war in the Mediterranean raised by clashes between Greek and Turkish Cypriots on the island republic. Greece and Turkey, partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, took opposite sides.

Johnson Praise

In Washington, President Johnson saluted the council for taking "a major step toward peace." The United States played a leading part in diplomatic efforts to avoid a clash that might disrupt NATO.

Tension remained high in Athens. There were more anti-American demonstrations and the U.S. Embassy announced cancellation of a visit to the Greek capital by ships of the U.S. 6th Fleet. Greece requested the cancellation.

Spyros Kyprianou, foreign minister of Cyprus, told a reporter the resolution "is a victory for the people of Cyprus" because it protects his country "from any aggression from the outside.

Turks Happy

Turkish Ambassador Turgut Menemencioglu said: "I feel very happy. I think we have a resolution that has all the positive elements necessary for a peaceful, agreed settlement."

Both the Soviet Union and France expressed reservations over the compromise resolution but in the end voted for it.

The two big powers and Czechoslovakia registered their stand for the record by abstaining on a paragraph which asked Thant to put together the peacekeeping force and name a commander who would report to him.

Soviet Delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko asserted it was only a device for circumventing the council's authority. He said the council would have to give authority for extending the force beyond three months.

French delegate Roger Seydoux told the council it was shirking its responsibilities by putting such heavy responsibilities on the secretary-general.

U.S. Navy Delays Visit To Athens

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — A visit to Athens by the U.S. 6th Fleet was postponed at the request Wednesday of the Greek government as new anti-American demonstrations swept the country.

A Greek government spokesman emphasized that a delay in the fleet's visit was requested only because Greek tempers are inflamed by the Cyprus dispute, where Greek and Turkish Cypriots are on the verge of civil war.

Despite assurances by the United States and Britain that they are only interested in finding a way to restore peace to Cyprus, both nations are widely regarded in Greece as pro-Turkish.

The 6th Fleet's aircraft carrier Shangri La, the cruiser Albany, four destroyers, two submarines and other ships were scheduled to make a courtesy call Thursday at this capital of a nation allied to the United States in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The fleet has been on three days of maneuvers with naval units from Turkey, another NATO ally.

Demonstrators raced through the streets of Athens shouting "Out with the fleet!" and "American, hands off Cyprus."

A U.S. Embassy spokesman announced: "The visit of the 6th Fleet was temporarily postponed at the suggestion of the government of Greece."

Later, U.S. Ambassador Henry Labouisse called on Premier George Papandreou, who has taken a strong stand against Turkey in the Cyprus dispute.

Governor Receptive To UC Bill Change

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. William Scranton said Wednesday he would accept changes in his proposed unemployment compensation revision program as long as they did not destroy basic principles of the bill.

He told a news conference the basic principles are: rebuilding the UC fund; closing loopholes in the law; bringing the state program into line with nearby states as a means of attracting new industry.

"These principles are absolutely basic and I will not compromise whatsoever," he said.

He declined to comment on specific proposals agreed upon Tuesday by Senate Republicans.

Talks Like Candidate

Scranton also contended the United States should go all-out to save South Viet Nam from a Communist takeover.

"If we're going to save Southeast Asia we are going to have to have to have a full effort there," Scranton said.

The governor made his statements in response to questions.

Explaining that he did not have the advantage of federal government intelligence reports, he said that from published reports the Viet Nam situation "is obviously in bad shape."

At the same time he said he believes Defense Secretary McNamara's report on his planned inspection trip to Southeast Asia will "clear up" some of the confusion.

'Sincere Draft'

Scranton frequently has been mentioned as a leading prospect for the Republican presidential nomination. He has said he is not seeking the nomination, but would accept a "sincere and honest draft."

The governor was questioned again on his presidential prospects. He said his position has not changed. He said he has not been in touch recently with any major figures in the GOP.

Ike's Writer'

However, he did disclose that Malcolm Moos, former adviser to former President Dwight Eisenhower, helped to write an address he made in New York City Tuesday night entitled "The Republican Challenge: A Call to Leadership."

Scranton said Moos was asked to help because his regular staff was too busy to handle the entire assignment.

Moos presently is a member of the political science faculties of Johns Hopkins and Columbia Universities.

Scranton declined to forecast a possible winner of the Republican primary in New Hampshire next Tuesday. The two major contenders are Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater and New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

He also said that so far there has been no decision on whether he can withdraw from the Oregon primary without filing a non candidate affidavit.

HE'S GOVERNOR— John J. McKeithen manages a restrained smile as returns in the Louisiana general election turned in his favor. (AP Wirephoto)

2 Seats In Lousiana Held By GOP

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—The Grand Old Party failed to upset Democrat John J. McKeithen for the Louisiana governorship, but Wednesday it found itself the Brand New Party with a minority leader and whip for the legislature.

McKeithen, 45, country lawyer and state public service commissioner, handily turned back the strongest GOP bid for the governorship since the post-Civil War period.

However, two Republicans won seats in the Louisiana House of Representatives in Tuesday's general election. They'll be the first of their political affiliation to sit in the legislature in this century.

One of them, Morley Hudson, 46, promptly elected himself as minority leader of the House. He said the other Republican, Taylor W. O'Hearn, 56, a lawyer accountant, would serve as minority whip.

"We'll both be in a goldfish bowl," said Hudson. "The public eye will really be on us to see just what Republicanism is."

Returns from 2,208 of the state's 2,214 precincts gave McKeithen 468,127 votes. Lyons got 296,762. The States Rights party candidate, little-known Thomas S. Williams of Ethel, had 5,80q votes scattered over the state's 64 parishes—counties.

Man Held For Rail Explosions

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—Federal authorities charged an Indiana laborer Wednesday with a Jacksonville race bombing and questioned him about blasts that wrecked railroad trains and an Alabama church.

William Sterling Rosecrans, 30, denied any connection with a series of dynamitings that derailed freight trains of the strikebound Florida East Coast Railway.

He was quoted as admitting he was in Alabama last fall when an explosion blew apart a Birmingham Negro church, killing four children Sept. 16, 1963.

Sheriff L. O. Davis said Rosecrans signed a statement admitting he bombed the Jacksonville home of a 6-year-old who is the only Negro pupil at an elementary school racially integrated by federal court order.

Rosecrans was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Donald DeHoff in Jacksonville on a charge of violating the 1960 federal civil rights law. His bond was set at $25,000. He said he had no prospect of making bond and was ordered held in Duval County Jail.

Oliver P. Weatherholt of the Florida Sheriffs Bureau said Rosecrans was "the first real good suspect anybody has had" in the systematic destruction of FEC trains.

Pay Raise For Congress Moves Fast

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill that would raise congressional pay $10,000 a year and provide increases for most other federal workers sailed through the House Rules Committee on Wednesday and headed for a vote next week.

The bill would add about $545 million to a federal payroll now running a bit over $14 million a year. It would benefit 1.7 million career employes, federal executives, judges and members of Congress.

For the average letter carrier and government secretary it would mean about $450 a year more, starting July 1. But at higher levels the increases would be much more substantial.

The pay of the vice president, speaker of the House and justices of the Supreme Court would go from $35,000 a year to $45,000, with the chief justice getting an additional $500. Cabinet salaries would rise from $25,000 to $35,000 and those of representatives and senators from $22,500 to $32,500.

Big boosts are also provided for sub-Cabinet officials, deputy and assistant secretaries and agency heads, whose salaries would be raied from about $21,000 to $30,000.

Only three members of the Rules Committee voted against the measure—eight were for it —and only one of a string of witnesses spoke against it.

U.S. Turns Down Castro's Water

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro has offered to restore water service to the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo. The United States gave him a quick turn-down Wednesday.

"Cuba considers the incident of the water at Guantanamo Bay closed and is ready to supply the base with water once again," Castro told foreign newsmen at a Moroccan Embassy reception in Havana.

"It is up to the Americans to use that water or not," he said.

State Department officials, informed of Castro's remarks, said the offer would not be accepted.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, promptly added: "We have already made it clear that Guantanamo is being made self-sufficient."

Castro thus seemed to have lost any chance of regaining the $168,000 in annual income—all in badly needed U.S. dollars—he lost when he turned off the water supply Feb. 6, demanding release of 38 Cuban fishermen in four trawlers caught in American waters off Florida.

Twenty-nine of them were tried in Florida courts and allowed to return to Cuba after their four captains paid fines for poaching.

The United States then cut the pipeline serving the base.

The United States has been hauling in water in tanker ships, has taken steps to conserve supplies at the base and has started drafting plans for a desalinization plant that will provide all the water Guantanamo needs.

Scranton Makes Big Pitch To Boost State's Tourism

HARRISBURG (AP) — There were 41 of them in all at the luncheon.

They came from all parts of the state.

They were service type employes—gas station attendants, taxi drivers, waitresses, policemen, even a meter maid.

They came to listen to Gov. William W. Scranton and Lt. Gov. Ramond P. Shafer seek their help in building up the tourist trade of Pennsylvania—and keep it up.

New Pitch

It was a new pitch. The governor has asked them to help make "tourism . . . number one in Pennsylvania."

The governor asked his people to help improve the economic climate of the Commonwealth by being nice to other people.

"It's as simple as that," he declared. "People like people who are nice to them."

Tourism is the second most important industry in Pennsylvania, he told them.

"We've got to tell people what we have to get them to come," he continued, warming to his task. "And then we've got to get them to come back.

Personal Contact

"The person-to-person contact is more important than any other I know. You can entice people to come, but it takes personal contact to get them to enjoy it while they're here."

Shafer put it on simpler terms. He said: "The members of the service trades have a great impact on tourism in Pennsylvania. To the tourists, you people are Pennsylvania."

The luncheon was held to dramatize that March in Pennsylvania is tourist preparation month.

The point apparently reached the service types.

"I was very much impressed," said Cpl. John Mueller of the York city police department. "It makes you realize that you (a policeman) have a job to do, but you've also got to put yourself in the other guy's shoes."

Agrees Wholeheartedly

Bob Schrock, a service station attendant from Somerset, wholeheartedly endorsed the effort.

"Somerset is a winter tourist area," he said. "We put more effort into servicing an out-of-state car. The local people are there. We treat them right, naturally, but we work a little harder at the out-of-state driver because we want to bring him back."

Pete Radomsky is a guide at the Seldom Seen Valley Mine, a small mining operation in Cambria County, also in western Pennsylvania. It's his job to be nice to people, he said.

Good Morning!

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—A ministerial conference on the Malaysian crisis foundered Wednesday and Prime Minister Abdul Rahman announced Malaysia will take its dispute with Indonesia to the United Nations.

The snag in renewed talks among Indonesia, the Philippines and Malaysia was differences of opinion about the Nov. 26 cease-fire arranged by U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy. A statement issued by the Malaysians appeared to be a warning that they consider the truce is off.

Food Stamp At Bat Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—Expension of the food stamp plan, a key weapon for President Johnson's war on poverty, was resurrected Wednesday as a re*sult of a squeeze play that last* week bottled up a tobacco-health research program.

But backers of the bill to turn a small pilot stamp project into a permanent nation-wide program for needy families said an amendment attached by the House Agriculture Committee requiring states to pay half the costs would cripple it seriously.

"We may as well have no bill at all, because the states just can't put up the 50 per cent," said Rep. Leonor Sullivan, D-Mo., the bill's sponsor. "It would be almost impossible to administer."

Mrs. Sullivan indicated she would make a floor fight to knock out the amendment when it comes up for House debate, or she might bank on the Senate doing that.

Cops Get Call Before Murder

BELLEFONTE, Pa. (AP) — State police received a telephone call Wednesday saying "a murder has taken place and there will be a further tragedy."

Fifteen minutes later they found a 66-year-old woman shot to death and her husband fatally wounded.

Centre County Coroner Robert Neff said it was a murder-suicide.

The victims were John I. Bottors, 64, of Runville, and his wife, Ella.

Bottors died at the Centre County Hospital two hours later without regaining consciousness. Both were shot in the head. Also killed were two pet dogs.

Bottors was found with a .22 caliber rifle across his chest and a two-page note at his feet, saying in part: "We're tired out and want to rest together."

Police said no one heard the shooting. They believe Bottors made the call. He gave his name and address, but refused to answer any further questions officers said.

Poverty Pockets Worry Dent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John H. Dent, D-Pa., called Tuesday for a reappraisal of U.S. trade policy in the light of what he said are many pockets of poverty in Pennsylvania.

In the steel industry alone, he said in a statement in the congressional record, imports last year caused the loss of almost 50,000 jobs in the United States.

No one wants to eliminate trade, he said, but "by the same token the fact that Pennsylvania has about a half million persons on relief with more pockets of poverty than any state in the union save one — West Virginia —certainly calls for a reappraisal of our trade economy."

Calls Warden After Escape

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Edward A. Pole, 21, of Sellersville R.D. 1, telephoned the warden's office early Wednesday with the news that he had escaped from Bucks County jail. Warden John Case already knew it, however, from a midnight bedcheck. But neither Case nor any of the other prison officials knew how Pole got away, only that he managed it sometime after 7 p.m. Tuesday.

When Pole called, officials reported, he said, "I'm thinking of coming back." But he hasn't shown so far.

Full House To Get Aged Bill

HARRISBURG (AP) — The House Health and Welfare Committee this week approved Gov. Scranton's plan to take aged patients out of state mental hospitals and place them under special nursing care in other state institutions.

The measure was sent to the floor without change for consideration by the full House starting next week.

The committee approval was the only action at a brief session of the House, which adjourned until next Monday.

Under the proposal, aged patients who do not require psychiatric care would be transferred to other state facilities.

An estimated 2,000 patients would be affected. And the state expects to become eligible for about $2 million a year under the federal medical care for the aged program.

WASHINGTON (AP)— A Democratic congressman from Pennsylvania asked party leaders in his district Wednesday to refrain from seeking an organization endorsement for him in his re-election race this year.

Rep. Fred B. Rooney, D-Pa., in telegrams to Democratic county chairmen in the four counties of his district, said he was repeating a request he made in his 1962 campaign.

"Although it may be reasonably argued that a primary fight is not the best assurance of party unity, the fact remains in the coming election my nomination is being contested by two fellow Democrats," Rooney said in the telegram.

"This, I feel, is an indication of the vitality of our party and I think this equality is far more important and precious than any other political asset we have working in our favor."

Requesting that the party leaders "do nothing to seek an organization endorsement for my candidacy," Rooney said that "for the sake of the Democratic party I believe we must engage in this campaign as loyal Democrats seeking the support of those who believe in the principles of America's greatest and most creative, humanitarian political party."

Mr. Rooney also said to Mrs. Mae Smith, acting chairman, Northampton County Democratic Committee; Hugh Friel, chairman, Carbon County Democratic Committee; W. C. G. Peterson, chairman, Monroe County Democratic Committee; Ernest Gastmeyer, chairman, Pike County Democratic Committee:

"For this reason, I want to go on record, specifically, asking that you and the remaining members of the executive county committee do nothing to seek an organization endorsement for my candidacy. You will recall that I made the same request in the 1962 primary election when I was opposed for the party's nomination for State Senator from the 18th District by Attorney William Rybak.

"You — and all the members of the Committee and the party in your County — have my heartfelt appreciation for what you have done in the past and my absolute faith that you will continue this magnificent work in the future.

"Working together, as we have always done, I know we can march on to a great Democratic victory with President Johnson in November. That is our ultimate goal and it is to that end that we must dedicate ourselves."

Illegal Deer Kill Costs $600

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)— Dale Oney, 42, of Harveys Lake, was fined $600 and costs on four counts this week in connection with spotlighting, killing deer and selling deer in violation of the Pennsylvania Game Commission laws.

A companion, Richard Burnat, 29, of Wilkes-Barre was fined $200 on two counts involving the same charges, but Judge Richard L. Bigelow put off disposition of four more counts against Burnat until Wednesday.

Oney's case was disposed of after his counsel made a plea that he be sentenced so that he could take a job in Connecticut.

Bigelow said at the start of the hearing that Burnat had pleaded guilty to six of 10 charges. He said Oney had pleaded guilty to five of eight charges.

At hearings before Justice of the Peace Leonard Harvey of Dallas, the defendants had been fined about $3,000 each and costs. They appealed their convictions to Luzerne County court.

The Lenten Story

BY WOODI ISHMAEL

THY WILL BE DONE

Leaving the upper room, where the Last Supper was held, Jesus went with His disciples to a country place called Gethsemani.

"Sit down here, while I go over yonder and pray," He said to them.

Then, taking Peter and James and John with Him, He went into a garden and, as Matthew tells us, "began to be saddened and exceedingly troubled."

"My soul is sad even unto death," He said to the three Apostles with Him. "Wait here and watch with Me."

Going forward, He fell on His face, praying:

"Father, if it is possible, let this cup pass from Me; yet not My will but Thy will be done." (Matthew XXVI: 39)

Pen Argyl Council Approves $132,926 Budget For '64

PEN ARGYL — Pen Argyl Borough Council approved its budget of $132,926.89 for 1964 at a meeting this week in the Town Hall.

The budget is based on an eight-mill real estate tax and a $5 per capita tax. Both taxes are the same as this year.

Harold J. Gross, a Democrat, was sworn in as councilman from the Third Ward. He fills the vacancy caused by the death of Lester Finkbeiner.

A complaint was heard from Floyd Caesar, owner of a laundromat, who said he cannot pay an average of one cent for fresh water and four cents a gallon for the discharge of water.

Charles Broad complained about the rundown condition of a building adjoining his property stating that it is about to fall and he doesn't want the building falling on his property where there is a possibility of danger to persons. The matter was turned over to the solicitor for his legal opinion.

It was reported by Fire Chief William Savercool that there were no fires in the borough in February.

Itwas reported that there will be a meeting of the interested boroughs at the East Bangor Lions Home at 7:30 p.m. next Monday to form an area Chamber of Commerce. This meeting is being sponsored by the Bangor Lions Club.

It was reported that ten new connections had been made to the sewer system, bringing the total connections to 1,155 with approximately 30 or 40 more connections to be made.

However, it was reported that those persons not connected have been billed for the last quarter and that the delinquent rentals have been turned over to the county tax claims bureau.

It was reported that there was a meeting of the sewer bond council and the sewer authority and the Borough Council at 8 o'clock last night when they discussed the possibility of lowering the rates of the sewer system.

An ordinance was passed for the borough to give 30 days notice to residents to put in curb on the streets which are being planned for reconstruction, with the borough to provide the grade to any person who wishes to put in curb in the borough.

The council approved the purchase of 200 feet of one-inch booster line at a cost of $204 from the American LaFrance Fire Fighting Equipment Co.

Trash will be collected in the borough the second Saturday of each month under agreement with the garbage contractor.

Professor Files Suit Against ESSC

STROUDSBURG — George L. Meyer, a professor at East Stroudsburg State College, has filed suit in equity against the college, Dr. Leroy J. Koehler, president of the college, and John A. Kitchen, tax collector for the borough of Stroudsburg.

The suit was filed yesterday in the office of Frank Smith, prothonotary, by Kennard Lewis, East Stroudsburg attorney.

The action alleges that Kitchen tried to collect occupation and per capita taxes from Meyer for 1963, and that Meyer's legal residence for the purposes of taxation is Winburne, Pa., in Clearfield County.

The suit acknowledges that Meyer maintains an apartment at 605 Main St. in Stroudsburg which he uses during his teaching months at ESSC.

It further alleges that Kitchen tried to attach $55.18 in wages from Meyer's salary at the college on Feb. 27, but that Meyer has receipts to show he paid his taxes in Winburne for last year.

The suit asks that Kitchen be restrained from collecting the taxes against Meyer, either directly or through attaching his wage, and that the college and Dr. Koehler be restrained from withholding these taxes.

State Traffic Deaths Increase

HARRISBURG (AP) — The state Traffic Safety Bureau reported last week that Pennsylvania traffic deaths went up more than 11 per cent during 1963.

The bureau said the death total, based on a preliminary figure, was 1,807 in 1963—an increase of 182 over the previous year.

At the same time the state's traffic death rate per 100 million miles traveled went up from 3.9 to 4.1.

Cites Need For Skilled Labor

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Labor's efforts to get shorter hours and double pay for overtime may result in a 10 to 15 per cent cut in production unless proper steps are taken, the president and board chairman of Botany Industries Inc. said this week.

Michael Daroff, speaking at a joint sales meeting, said the men's clothing industry has not made the proper progress in training more skilled workers.

One Per Cent Tax Slated For Roseto

ROSETO—The Roseto School Board adopted a one per cent earned income tax at its recent meeting. The board shares the tax with borough council.

The board authorized Miss Rose Pinto to prepare the 1964-65 tax duplicate.

In other action, Treasurer Albert Ronca told the meeting balances in the various accounts of the board were $975.07, general fund; and $32,000 in a special fund.

He listed recepts of $3,967.74 for 1963 taxes, $2,507.86, earned income tax; $62.16 from the county tax claim bureau for delinquent taxes and $1,257.53 from state department for state department for transportation reimbursement.

Driver Unhurt As Car Flips

STROUDSBURG — A skidding car rolled over at 10:55 a.m. Tuesday on Rt. 196 near Gregory Pond in Smithfield Township pinning the driver under the front end of the car.

State Police of the Stroudsburg substation said the uninjured car's driver, William H. Kresge, 21, of 1192 Main St., Stroudsburg, slid on the wet highway, crossed over into a field and embankment and rolled over.

Damage was estimated at $800.

Amphib Stays 5 Days At Sea

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—An Air Force amphibian plane that landed in the Atlantic to recover a film capsule from a Cape Kennedy missile finally took off Sunday after wallowing around in rough seas for five days.

The plane, attached to the 48th Air Rescue Squadron at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., ran into bad weather after she landed Feb. 25. The next four days, the twin-engine plane used up most of its fuel taxiing around trying to find a favorable place and time to take off.

The Tax Hooker

The rate of withholding federal income money from paychecks drops today from 18 per cent to 14 per cent. But before you go out and spend all the money you think you are saving, look out, there's a hooker.

Under the tax reduction bill signed by President Johnson, individual income tax rates which now range from 20 to 91 per cent will be cut to 16 to 77 per cent for income received in 1964 and then cut again to 14 to 70 per cent for income received in 1965.

President Johnson pushed to have the tax withholding rate cut immediately from 18 to 14 per cent so that take home pay would immediately reach the 1965 tax reduction level rather than drop more slowly in two stages.

This immediate new flow of cash into the economy will give an extra spurt to spring and Easter shopping on a national level.

But on the personal level, you may have to look hard to see the difference in any one week's paycheck. Nevertheless, when tax payment time comes around in April, 1965, that four per cent reduction in money withheld for taxes will add up to a sizeable sum for many taxpayers.

They will suddenly discover in April, 1965, that their taxes have been withheld at the lower second year reduction rate although they have to pay 1964 federal taxes at the higher first year reduction level, and may be stuck with one large unexpected bill.

Of course the November election will be over by then. That's the hooker.

A Good Start On Planning

The Monroe County Planning Commission, brought back to life by the new county board of commissioners, is off to a good start.

The commissioners rated county planning by an active county planning commission one of the most important problems facing the area when they took office in January.

They have now appointed a nine-man commission of capable and interested citizens, and that commission is not wasting any time getting to its business.

The planning commission Tuesday night hired an engineer, approved a first draft of by-laws, decided that its meetings be open to the public and held regularly on the first Tuesday of each month.

These are all constructive steps.

Regular meetings open to the public are particularly important.

The County Park Commission has moved slowly on the old proposal for a county park at Flagler Run and the new proposal for county operation of swimming and fishing facilities at Stokes Mill partly because is does not hold regular meetings, which require or encourage regular progress.

Open meetings of both the planning and park commissions are important for public understanding and appreciation of the problems we face in planning and improving Monroe County.

The planning commission's discussion of ways to educate the public, the commissioners and itself on planning for the future of Monroe County is an integral part of its job of explaining problems which face the county, proposing solutions and urging action on these proposals.

Comment Of The Day

"We are not interested in me-tooing the Democrats.

"But Republicans must make it clear that they do not believe America's problems will disappear if we all merely wrap ourselves in the Stars and Stripes.

"They must make it clear that conservatives will have nothing to do with the forces of reaction."

—Governor William Scranton in a frankly partisan speech to the Economic Club of New York.

Walter Lippmann

Mood Change

By Walter Lippmann

After some 10 days in Southern California where I did little except sniff the air, I have come back feeling that since last year there has been a change of mood.

It is a change for the better. A year ago in the aftermath of the Cuban missile crisis there was an alarming amount of floating anxiety, of irrational fear and groundless anger, expressing itself in war-whooping at our adversaries abroad and in extremism at home.

The anxiety which was threatening to unnerve the country is subsiding. I did not, of course, take a poll or, like a good reporter, make an investigation in depth. But unless I am greatly mistaken, the strain of irreconcilability, which turns normal political controversy into a deadly poison, has declined.

The unrestrained and unmeasured extremism, which caused men to talk as if they would like to secede from the Union because they hated Washington where the Kennedys ruled, is no longer respectable. One hears notably less of the war-whoopers who, when anything goes wrong, want to send in the Marines or make the Navy lay a blockade or let loose the bombers.

There is a degree of unity and a mood of sobriety which is, of course, the real America underneath the passing frustrations of having to deal with a new and dangerous world.

A radical right and a radical left we shall always have with us. But in a strong and stable country they are dangerous only when they infect considerable sections of the moderate center. I may, of course, be mistaken. But I think the infections of extremism are not spreading and are, on the contrary, receding. I have been wondering why.

The leading factors have been, I think, the assassination of President Kennedy, the accession of Lyndon Johnson and the realization, after the Cuban confrontation and the test ban treaty, that nuclear war is not imminent and that Cuba, though a nuisance, is not a military danger. Last, but not least, I would put on the list the open candidacy of Barry Goldwater.

The murder of President Kennedy shocked the country into a realization of what can happen if violence is unrestrained. At the same time, it removed a President who was enormously admired and extravagantly hated. The country feels very much at home with the Johnson family, and it has been greatly reassured by the competence with which the Vice President took over.

The calming effect of the nuclear detente, which was, it may well be, the crowning achievement of President Kennedy, has coalesced with the feeling of confidence that Lyndon Johnson is a prudent, old-fashioned American who has no taste for gambling and foreign adventure.

And then there is the constructive contribution of Barry Goldwater. As long as he was not out in the open running for President, he was free to say all kinds of dashing things that caught various people's fancy. But to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for President of the United States is quite different from holding forth in the locker room of a country club. Serious people have now taken a serious look at the senator's remarkable books and speeches, and they are now being subjected to full public exposure.

The senator is doing a great service to the country. It is like that done by a vivid cartoon in a confused political controversy. He impersonates, and is parading before the voters' eyes, the eternal juvenile who lurks in the American soul. This boy who won't grow up refuses to live in a world which does not obey his wishes. He will not believe that he has adversaries whom he cannot dominate or that he has friends whom he must live with though they do not agree with him.

This unquenchable boy is sure that whatever goes against his wishes is the work of a villain or a traitor. He does not doubt that every problem has a solution, that that is to say, his solution. For him, all conflicts and disputes must end either in victory or defeat. All is black that isn't altogether white, for history has taught him nothing. It has not taught him that in many of the great religious and ideological conflicts of mankind there has been no victory, no defeat, no solution and no settlement — only an untidy living with the unsettled business.

Since we as a people have to put away the eternal boy in ourselves if we are going to move successfully in a world we do not own or control, and among people who do not have to love us because we are almost always right, I rejoice at the signs I have seen that the country will follow the President as he puts away childish things.

On this cheery note, I have returned from my vacation.

The Pennsylvania Story

Intriguing Battle

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — One of the more intriguing behind-the-scenes battles strategists of both parties on Capitol Hill have been watching draws to a close on Monday.

Monday, March 9 is the final day before the primary election April 28 to register in Pennsylvania. On Tuesday the registration books will be closed — and not until after the November general election will party changes be permitted, although strictly "new" registrations will be permissable after the primaries.

Thus in effect any "switching" from one party to another in anticipation of the fall presidential election will have been sealed by Tuesday.

However what has the shot-callers in both major political parties in the Keystone State on edge when the books close at the end of the business day Monday is whether the current Democratic registration edge will be nibbled away, decreased only slightly — or increased.

As matters stand at the moment, Keystone State Democrats enjoy an edge over their GOP counterparts of 83,013, which when you consider the fact that there are more than five million registered voters, can be classified as anything but substantial, invigorating or conducive to even a few gentle war whoops.

Within the short space of the past year and a half, Pennsylvania Democrats have gone to pot somewhat ignominiously on the registration front, dipping from 195,935 during the 1962 fall gubernatorial when Republican William Warren Scranton emerged the victor, to a (comparatively) piddling 83,013 edge at present. During the primary a year ago the edge stood at 85,225.

Republicans are counting on an upsurge — and for that matter so are hopeful Democrats.

However, the edge in the "upswing" department invariably rests with the in-power party (which currently happens to be the Republicans) a point succinctly illustrated by the fact that when Democrat George M. Leader won the gubernatorial polish cloth in 1954, he did so in spite of a near-million GOP registration edge — which as already noted was whittled down during eight years of Democratic tenure to a Democratic margin of nearly 200,000 in 1962.

The "edge" on the registration front however is anything but conclusive in determining the victor — as evidenced by the Leader swamp of ten years ago, and more recently, the Scranton swamp in 1962 by more than a 470,000 majority which in both instances saw the opposition party enjoying healthy registration edges.

The registration edge of yesteryear is no longer the sure-fire sweep-into-office statistic it used to be. In fact in light of more contemporary developments (most notably the Leader and Scranton victories) registration figures have become more of a titullating and exasperating figure than a practical one!

For the most part, registration figures today provide at best a (hoped-for) clue as to the way winds are blowing on the political tundras — nothing conclusive, but more than anything else a possible grasp-in-the-wind of trends; trends defined not by numerical countings but by the "manner" of switchings from one party to the other.

Thus the showing that is important when the figures are rounded up after Monday's deadline is not so much the tabulation of the registration edge but rather the interpretation of the edge in relation to switch-overs from one party to the other.

It is this factor with which the powers-that-be in both parties are concerned, and with a presidential election upcoming this fall along with the critical allied state offices at stake, the evaluation that must be made becomes more strategic than ever.

The "degree" of party switching is the important factor now — not the mere mechancilla registration edge itself, as used to be the case.

No Dull Officer He

Army officers usually are a dull lot, especially if you meet them at their base of operations. More times than not you can get the nomenclature of the GI brush free of charge or a one hour dissertation on the workings of a dish-cleaning apparatus.

Frequently a visit to a service installation will end with, "Was this trip necessary." However Tuesday afternoon a visit to Tobyhanna Army Depot upped our opinion of the type of manhood guiding the destiny of the United States.

Fortunately we ran into a fellow who goes under the title of Lt. Col. Clyde Russell.

Clyde Burke, the Depot's efficient public information officer, placed us across the table from Col. Russell, a move we will be most thankful for in years to come.

Russell is from Tennessee. Unlike the "all legs and no body" billing given most Volunteer State natives, the colonel is well-proportioned (full, that is) of the added attribute called humor.

Talk got around to life in Dixie. With that, Col. Russell took off verbally faster than we've ever heard a Southerner speak. There was little drawl or hesitation as he revealed family life before he entered Uncle Sam's service.

"My Dad was a bootlegger. That is he made the booze. I was his chief salesman and my brother was a Baptist minister," he confided.

"Now can you beat a combination like that," he smiled.

"Tell us what happened," we inquired.

"The darned old war (World War II) came along and they made daddy head of the draft board. That put us out of business and sent me away to the Army," he laughed.

You knew the place rocked with laughter with this tale. But like Durante, Milt, "had a million of 'em."

Seriously, Col. Russell is a good addition to any unit. He's only been at the Depot a few short months but you can bet the morale is high with a fun-loving and level-headed individual about.

Burke told us, Col. Russell is a director. What type we did not probe any further. But even if it is only to shoot some spirit into a bull-session, he's worth his weight in gold—excuse us, eagles

Young Worries

Today's atomic age youngsters have the worries the rest of us never had when we wanted to run away from home. For instance, consider the following farewell note written by a 9-year-old Milwaukee girl, after a quarrel with her brothers:

"Goodbye family. You all hate me. I love you all very much. God bless you." On the bottom of the page she had written, "Over." And on the other side: "In case of air raid, I'm in the attic."

Cuban Thorns

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — President Johnson faces a new thorny decision on Communist-ruled Cuba — that may be a lot tougher than countering Castro's cut - off of Guantanamo's water supply.

Manuel Ray, one - time minister of public works in the Castro regime and among the most controversial leaders of the Cuban exiles, proposes to launch a new guerrilla underground on the island and wants U.S. assistance. Specifically, Ray is seeking two things:

Assurance that the U.S. will not interfere with his infiltration of fighting men and arms into Cuba.

A steady flow of funds and weapons to support his combat operations when they get underway.

An avowed socialist, Ray announced last May he was organizing a new force that would "invade" Cuba within a year. Through emissaries, he has notified authorities in the State and Justice Departments and Central Intelligence Agency he is now ready to start infiltrating his troops.

Their number is placed as between 700 and 900.

They have been undergoing rigorous training in Puerto Rico and Venezuela, where they have had the support of former President Betancourt. His recently inaugurated successor is reputedly also behind them.

Trained to operate in small guerrilla units, they will embark for Cuba from Venezuela and one other Central American country. Ray's plan is to follow Castro's successful tactics of infiltrating into the mountains of Oriente Province and striking from there.

Ray and most of his officers are thoroughly acquainted with this region.

Backstage Split — In weighing Ray's potentially highly explosive proposals, President Johnson is confronted with sharply clashing views among his top advisers.

Foremost among the left - leaning Cuban exile leader's supporters are Attorney General Robert Kennedy, Defense Secretary McNamara, and important officials of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Secretary Rusk is strongly against Ray's venture. The State Department head argues it might escalate into a new dangerous confrontation between the U. S. and Russia. It is Rusk's contention the U.S. should limit its efforts to topple the Communist Castro regime by economic and diplomatic measures — despite their patent ineffectualness.

Still on the fence are two other key officials — CIA Director John McCone and Assistant Secretary of State Thomas Mann, in charge of Latin American affairs.

McCone is much concerned about the wide variance in CIA over Ray; with some officials vigorously favoring him and others equally against him. Also, McCone is wary of Ray's past close association with Castro and his known radical economic views.

The fact that the Joint Chiefs of Staff also are chary of Ray is influencing McCone in withholding a decision regarding him.

Assistant Secretary Mann is keeping an open mind pending a thorough study of Ray's plans and background. Because of the President's confidence in Mann, his counsel is certain to be influential.

Under the late President Kennedy, Ray visited Attorney General Kennedy in his Washington home. At one time, he was widely credited among Cuban exiles as the Kennedy administration's favored anti - Castro leader. He still appears to have the confidence of the Attorney General and important elements in the Defense Department and CIA.

Whether they are enough to overcome the skepticism of Secretary Rusk and other high-placed authorities remains to be seen.

Siding with them in this wariness are rival refugee leaders who are critical of Ray on the ground he is a "dedicated leftist." Some who were on close terms with him are now actively against him. They charge Ray's basic policy is "Castroism without Castro."

Secret Write-In Campaign — New Hampshire's widely touted presidential primary next week may turn out to be just as important for the Democrats as for Republicans.

Supporters of Attorney General Robert Kennedy are quietly conducting a well-organized and financed drive to pile up a big write-in vote for him for Vice President.

Democratic Governor John King, a strong Kennedy adherent, is reputedly masterminding this backstage campaign.

Insiders are hinting that $100,000 is being put into it.

Dear Abby

He Could Be Ill

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We have been married forty-two years and are both in our sixties. My husband has always been a ladies' man, but the older he gets, the worse he gets. He has to have a woman doctor, a woman barber, and he will never let a man wait on him in a store if he can get a woman to do it. If a neighbor woman drops in to visit with me, even if he is busy outside, he comes right in and takes over, and I seldom get a word in. Also, when the most innocent remark is made, his eyes light up, he gets a dirty smirk on his face and he twists it around to make it sound smutty. I am at the end of my rope. Does this happen to ALL men when they get on in years?

DIRTY OLD MAN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: No. Your husband could be more than a "dirty old man." He could be a sick one. Doctors have seen this type, and one should see yours soon!

DEAR ABBY: Today, while I was on the school bus, the bus driver hit a dog. All of us kids told him about it, and all he said was, "I am aware of that." Abby, he didn't even stop to see if the dog was dead or not. Up until now I have always thought of this bus driver as a nice person. Now I don't want to look at him. None of us kids could do a thing.

LOVES DOGS

DEAR LOVES DOGS: If you haven't already done so, tell your parents and they will certainly take it up with the school authorities. The bus driver should have stopped and done what he could to help the poor animal. Had the bus driver been alone, the crime would not have been less, but to have set such a poor example for school children is inexcusable.

DEAR ABBY: At Christmastime I gave my boy friend a leather wallet and a pair of silver cuff links. He gave me a ball point pen with the name of an insurance company on it. For Valentine's Day I gave him a 12 by 14 tinted picture of myself in a real pretty frame, and he didn't give me anything. What gives?

KATHY

DEAR KATHY: Not your boy friend.

DEAR ABBY: The item in your column, "Confidential to Buffalo Bill: Do not resent growing old. It is a privilege denied to many" hit me hard, Abby. I am a 26-year-old widow with two small children, 6 and 8. My husband was 27 years old when he died of electric shock at his job. If people only knew how lucky they were to have each other!

Speaking Of Your Health:

Ringworm-- A Misnomer

By Lester L. Coleman, M. D.

Ringworm is a confusing name given to a variety of skin infections caused by molds and many types of fungus. The confusion becomes more apparent because the skin eruption rarely is ring-formed and is never due to a worm.

The four most common sites of these infections are the feet, the scalp, the body and the nails. By far the most frequent of all of these is ringworm of the feet, called "athlete's foot."

These conditions are far more annoying than dangerous, and hardly deserve the terrifying-sounding term Dermatophytoses.

A simple regime is recommended for ringworm of the feet. Cleanliness, drying, and applications of salves or powders are prescribed specifically for each individual's condition.

Do-It-Yourself Dangers

Self-treatment with haphazardly chosen medications only tends to prolong the condition, and even invite additional complicating infection.

Ringworm of the scalp and head is extremely contagious. Infections are rapidly spread from child to child, especially when combs and brushes are used as common property.

The infection produces a small area of temporary baldness by destroying the roots of the hair.

Ringworm of the scalp is a stubborn condition which requires faithful adherence to the doctor's instructions.

Cross Contamination

Particular care must be devoted to the danger of cross contamination. Dogs and cats frequently have the ringworm fungus and transmit it readily to humans. It is imperative, therefore, that the pet be treated actively by a veterinarian in order to avoid recurring cycles of this condition.

Ringworm of the body is another contagious form of this parasitic infection. Like ringworm of the scalp, this skin illness is more frequent in children than in adults. Small oval shaped patches appear on the face, the neck, and other parts of the body. Areas of pink, scaly "rashes" usually characterize body ringworm.

Hitting The Nails

The most difficult and tenacious form of ringworm is the one that involves the nails. The nails become grooved, pitted, and brittle. The discoloration sometimes lasts for months.

Contagion characterizes ringworm. Prevention, therefore, must be the object of personal and medical attention.

A wide variety of fungicides is effectively used to kill the fungus. Unless these fungicides are used with discretion and under the supervision of a physician, the skin may be injured and infected. Overly generous applications of strong liniments may damage the skin and convert this nuisance disease into one of more serious importance.

Readily Established

The diagnosis of ringworm can readily be established by a dermatologist (skin doctor) by skin scrapings and cultures. The exact mold can frequently be found. Medication known to be particularly effective against the causative fungus almost invariably controls the ringworm and prevents its spread.

The emphasis on all ringworm infection is prevention. Unlike many other conditions, one attack of ringworm does not confer immunity. Reinfection frequently occurs unless the means of transmission is stopped at its source.

Stories Behind Words

To Boomerang

The expression "to boomerang" is an allusion to the action of the boomerang, a wooden missile used by the natives of Australia.

The boomerang is crescent-shaped. It is from two to four feet long and is flat on one side and round on the other. There are three kinds of boomerangs: one for war, one for hunting, and one for amusement.

The one used for amusement is the well known "return" type. When thrown it travels outward and upward, whirling and traveling in an arc. After it reaches a certain distance and height it returns, falling near the thrower.

From this return action came the expression "to boomerang," meaning for some argument or action to be turned back on the originator.

Stroudsburg Raises Tax 2 Mills

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg borough council last night approved a budget of $235,241 for 1964 and increased the property tax from 15 to 17 mills.

This increase means a tax of $17 on each $1,000 of assessed property valuation.

Some of the major expenses in the budget are $55,889 for police department; $45,485 for highway department; $18,500 for street lighting; $17,155 for fire department; $10,800 for park and playgrounds; $13,700 for administration; $17,950 for debt service and $20,525, miscellaneous.

In other business, council approved a bid from Haynes Motors, Inc. for a new police car. The bid, the only one received, was $2,903.15 less a $1,682.85 trade-in allowance for the present car, and a deduction of $195.30 for federal taxes making the purchasing price $1,025.

Outdoor Food Service

Harold Snyder read a letter from George Livingstone, state department of health officer in Kingston on serving food in an outdoor area.

The letter stated that it is permissible for food to be served in an outdoor area as long as the food is prepared in a sanitary place which has been approved by the board of health. However, the person serving the food to the customer must be covered by a valid health certificate.

The letter referred to a Stroudsburg ordinance which restricts on serving food in an outdoor area. The ordinance requires, in addition to other items, that the area be screened.

Penn-Stroud Cafe

The question deals with the Penn-Stroud Hotel and a front porch cafe which it wants to operate during summer months.

After discussing a possible change in the local ordinance, Mayor Joseph Small suggested to council that Penn-Stroud Hotel officials be contacted to see if they will agree to screening in the front area of the hotel porch.

This is the area used by the hotel in operating its sidewalk cafe.

Council agreed and delayed action on a suggestion to change the ordinance.

Council, after a discussion, approved the purchase of a new radio for the police car. The cost of the radio and installation is $850.

Wants Reduction

Councilman Joseph Kovarick, during the discussion, said, "We (council) have in past years gone over the budget and made cuts to keep the millage at a level. To the best of my knowledge we have not done this in this budget.

"I suggest we eliminate the purchase of the new radio and place the money in a contingency fund. We have often spoke about a contingency fund but we have never had one."

New Radio Supported

Councilman John Hauser said he felt the need of a new radio and the placing of the old radio in the superintendent of highways' car a necessity. Councilmen Stephen Sackley and Howard Altemus agreed with Hauser.

Snyder told the meeting that many times he has had to get the superintendent of streets in a hurry and that he has resorted to using the borough police to locate him as well as going out in his car to look for the man. He cited one emergency in the past week.

"I received a telephone call from a resident on Club Court who had sewage backing up into his cellar. The superintendent of streets had just left my office and I had to go out and locate him to tell him of the emergency," Snyder said.

He continued, "This took about one-half hour. With a radio in his vehicle I could have called him immediately and he could have gone to the scene with the necessary men and equipment. The end result being the resident would not have had as much sewage in the basement as he did."

Kovarick Convinced

After hearing Snyder, Kovarick said, "You have made your point and I withdraw my objection and now favor the installation of the old police radio in the street superintendent's car."

Chief of Police John Tretheway told the meeting that the expected lifetime of the radio is about eight years with a possibility of ten years. He said the radio, now in the police car, is some five years old and in very good working condition.

Half House Action

Mayor Small asked council if any action had been taken on the "half-house" on McMichaels Creek in Stroudsburg to have the property owner connect to the Stroudsburg Sewage System.

Councilman Kovarick, a member of the board of health committee, replied, "No."

Mayor Small said, "Well then I'll ask the same question at next month's meeting of council."

Small was referring to a building near Broad St. bridge. The property is owned by C. B. Melton, president of the Ohio Gas Co. in Bryan, Ohio.

Small has suggested that the area be purchased by the borough or the Stroudsburg Parking Authority and made into a metered parking area.

Larison Finds 3 Guilty

EAST STROUDSBURG — Three persons were found guilty of disorderly conduct yesterday before Justice of the Peace Harold Larison Sr. of East Stroudsburg.

Donald VanWhy, 34, of 350 Lincoln Ave., Mildred Cramer, 33, of 92 Washington St., and Clara Heeman, 37, of Normal St., all of East Stroudsburg, were prosecuted by Edward T. Fish, 21, of Normal St., East Stroudsburg.

The disorderly conduct charges originated from an incident on Tuesday, March 3 at 11:30 p.m.

All three pleaded not guilty at Larison's hearing, but were found guilty and each one was sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and costs.

Eastburg Plans $25,000 Loan

EAST STROUDSBURG—East Stroudsburg Borough Council expects to balance its books for 1964 through an expected increase in revenue and by borrowing $25,000 from a bank, to be repaid over a five-year period, Sterling Cramer, borough manager, explained yesterday.

The question came up after Tuesday night's meeting of the council which adopted an amended budget of $218,000, $38,000 over its first tentative budget, over the protest of one councilman on "deficit spending."

Stroud Twp. Supervisors Increase Millage One Mill

STROUDSBURG — Stroud Twp. Supervisors last night adopted a budget of $62,710 for 1964, increasing the general fund millage one mill, from three to four mills. The sinking and fire fund millage will remain at one mill each. A $5 per capita tax also remains the same as last year.

The budget shows $60,910 as estimated receipts. This will come from county aid taxes, fees from rental equipment, junk yard license, and fines.

Administration expenses are estimated at $3,405. Tax collection expenses are $2,980. Expenditures of $11,575 are listed for township buildings. $7,000 is budgeted for police protection. Total fire protection will cost $1,000.

Other expenditures listed are $500, planning and zoning; $700, health and sanitation; $38,000, highways; $75, annual supervisors convention; $2,500, miscellaneous expenses.

The fire fund receipts are expected to be $20,240. Total receipts in the sinking fund are $13,528.02.

The February police report noted that there were six traffic violations; three accident investigations, and one prowler apprehended at the Palmer Serfass property.

Also, the burglar alarm at Oiljak Manufacturing Co., Stroudsburg, RD 2, was investigated but was reported as a false alarm. The police also investigated the report of boys shooting a .22 rifle on Douglas Ave.

Stroud Township police also investigated the reported theft of $6,000 from a truck.

However, the money was secretly hidden at several places in the truck and was found, H. W. Tebbs, chief of police in Stroud Twp., said last night.

Harold Albert, secretary-treasurer of the supervisors, said the increase is due to $5,300 in unpaid bills from 1963, and the increased cost of materials needed to operate the township.

Bills for February, $6,615.00, were approved. Albert pointed out that actual expenditures last year were $53,534.63.

Airport Authority To Free Aero-Mod From Contract

MT. POCONO — The Mt. Pocono Airport Authority has unanimously consented to release Aero-Mod Inc. from its ten-year contract as manager of the Pocono Mountain Airport and has formed a committee to negotiate the release.

E. Rodger Miller, authority secretary, said last night, "Louis DePaul has been appointed chairman of the committee to evaluate the physical aspects of the airport and report back to the authority."

Aero-Mod requested the release in the form of a latter signed by its president, Mrs. Rosemary McCullough, at the authority's meeting in the Casino Building Tuesday night.

Any decision the authority takes in respect to Aero-Mod must be ratified by its seven sponsoring municipalities because they were co-signers of the original contract signed with Aero-Mod on April 12, 1963.

Miller said an inventory of material at the airport will be taken before any negotiating is done with Aero-Mod.

R. LeRoy Dengler, authority chairman, announced at the meeting the supervisors of Coolbaugh Township had signed a contract for a 250 foot access road at the airport needed before the Federal Aviation Agency will release $24,000 in government aid to the authority.

In making the announcement, Dengler gave special thanks to the county commissioner, Stuart Pipher, for urging the Coolbaugh supervisors to sign the contract. Pipher was at the authority meeting.

"We ought to give Pipher a pat on the back. He accomplished something we had been unable to accomplish in the past years," said Dengler.

Road Delay

Last night John Grady, a Coolbaugh supervisor, said, "The reason there has been a delay in building that road is because the authority did not obtain the necessary right of way easements for us to start construction."

Grady said the contract for the road work was signed Monday night with Shiffer Bituminous Service Co. of Stroudsburg. He said the firm has 120 days from the start of construction to finish the job.

Grady said a stretch of old Rt. 611, in front of the airport will not be closed to traffic until the new road is completel.

Close Road

The FAA has insisted the old road be closed to traffic before it will make any money available to the authority.

Grady said the authority did not obtain the necessary rights of way until last fall and the necessary approval of the highway department delayed the job until last Monday.

He emphasized the Coolbaugh supervisors have great respect for Pipher and want to work closely with the county commissioners, but he said he thought Dengler's statement was unfair to the supervisors.

Tobyhanna Water System To Run Again Today

TOBYHANNA — Tobyhanna residents will have water by 8 p. m. today if all goes according to plan, Ralph W. Pope, manager of the Tobyhanna Water Co. told The Daily Record last night.

An estimated 100 families in the community have been without water since Tuesday.

The cause of water failure is a worn out water pump at the water works pumping station.

People in the community have been drawing water from Coolbaugh Twp. Fire Co., which is supplied by a well, and Tobyhanna Army Depot.

Col. M. J. Richel, TAD commander, said last night, that the depot will supply water to persons in the area as long as the pump is out of operation if they bring their own container for the water.

He added that many persons from Tobyhanna were given water yesterday.

The break down of the pump is the second time within the past 90 days.

An official of the Public Utilities Commission yesterday contacted the owner of the water company. John Staph, a Harrisburg contractor and owner of the Tobyhanna Water Works said he believed water service would be restored Thursday.

Further negotiations between the Public Utilities Commission and the owner will be held to remedy the water situation.

Two Tobyhanna factories did not close. They are fighting the drought by using emergency facilities and having water brought in by truck.

"The Coolbaugh Township Supervisors wish to extend their appreciation to Col. M. J. Richel, TAD commander for his service and cooperation in this emergency," said John T. Grady, a former supervisor.

East Borough Board Backs County Unit

EAST STROUDSBURG — The East Stroudsburg Borough School Board said last night that improved education and administration were the overwhelming factors involved in the board's decision to endorse a single county school unit.

Irving Sommer, a board member, said, "The borough might receive some financial relief for a few years but the reason we are going for a one county unit is not merely because of money."

At its February meeting the board reversed its original stand favoring a four-unit plan and voted in favor of a single county unit. The county school board will meet March 19 to vote on a plan for school reorganization.

"The big cry (against a single county unit) is that we will lose local control. I don't think going to a county is losing local control. Let's face it, how much control does any school board have now. We can make few decisions on our own," said Sommer.

Special Education

Dr. Evan Reese, board president, said, "In the four school districts in the county we may have 15 outstanding students — three or four in each district — and in a one county unit we could give these students a special education. No individual district could do this on its own."

Irving Foltz, a board member, said the need for a vocational school in the county is great. "Then we would be able to get our students away from making match boxes and tie racks," he said.

The board also discussed the problem of the borough's occupation assessments. Dr. Reese complained people doing the same work or belonging to the same professions are not being assesed uniformly.

He pointed out this problem is flagrant in the borough's fifth and sixth wards. "The assessors in these wards did not have the nerve to send out the adjusted assessments," he said.

Eastburg Payroll Higher

In other action the board:

1. Heard a report from James Bunnell, board secretary, stating that 1,826 persons work in East Stroudsburg, earning an annual payroll of $8,157,000 as opposed to the 966 persons who work in Stroudsburg and earn $3,647,000 a year.

"These people come over and use the college, the hospital and work here and they use our sewers and water and then go some place else to live and pay taxes," Bunnell said.

2. Received a report showing $8,849,803 worth of borough real estate was exempt from taxes in 1963.

3. Authorized payment of bills due March 4 totaling $52,337.20. The treasurer's report showed a cash balance of $49,447.35. Bunnell told the board enough money would be available from tax receipts to pay these bills.

Invasion Of Skiers Pouring Dollars Into Poconos' Economy

By Gil Murray
Daily Record Reporter

TANNERSVILLE—Skiers who came to Monroe County during the past three months came not only to enjoy excellent conditions at the major Pocono ski areas, but according to all business indicators they came to spend money for many other services.

Businessmen of all sizes have reported a noticeable increase in business over past winters. The boast to the economy of the resort industry—previously mainly summer oriented—has been astounding and far reaching.

50,000 Skiers

An estimated 50,000 additional skiers have flocked to the mountains this winter. This estimate is substantiated as conservative by The Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission in Morrisville, Pa.

The commission reported 43,000 more cars have crossed the Delaware Water Gap Bridge during the past December and January than during the same period a year ago.

Guards on the 3 to 11 p. m. shift at the Gap bridge have noticed a heavy stream of skiers headed for the Poconos over weekends.

This increase in potential resort business comes mainly from the New Jersey-New York area. The other major metropolitan drawing area is Philadelphia and according to reports more Philadelphians came to the Poconos this year than ever before.

Shot in the Arm

At the bottom of this welcomed shot in the arm to the Poconos winter economy is the brand new and highly successful Camelback Ski Area. Camelback is handling a weekly average of approximately 5,000 skiers.

"This is 50 per cent better than we expected," said Kenneth Nicoll, Camelback's resident manager.

In addition to reaping the benefits of this new business, Camelback has provided its own shot-in-the-arm to the area's economy.

95 New Jobs

It has created 75 new full time and part time employees and dispenses a weekly payroll of $6,000 Another 20 people are employed in Camelback's sport shop and cafeteria. This has been accomplished by the more than $750,000 spent developing the facility.

And Camelback is not the only business to feel the influx of increased winter business. Other skiing areas report "the best ever" winter along with owners of resorts, motels, diners, bars, restaurants and the dozens of service industries.

Other Areas Prosper

Harry Drennan, manager of the winter sports area at the Inn at Buck Hill Falls, said, "We had a very excellent winter. We noted a 10 to 15 per cent increase."

Drennan indicated skiing was on the rise at Buck Hill before Camelback was built, but he was quick to add, "There is no doubt about Camelback has helped our business."

To illustrate whato he meant, Drennan said, "In 1941 we grossed $9,000 on our winter sports. In 1963 we grossed $57,000 and we will do better this year."

Camelback Helps

He said the volume of winter sports has been steeadily increasing at Buck Hill since the Inn purchased its new snowmaking machine. The machine provides skiing during periods of no snow, he said.

Other ski areas reporting increased business include Split Rock Lodge at Lake Harmony, Skytop Lodge, Pocono Manor and Onawa Lodge.

H. I. Shimen, owner of Onawa, said, "We had a very good winter business. This is in addition to our regular guests who have been coming here over the years. However, Camelback does bring more guests over weekends."

People Turned Away

Motels are thriving this winter also.

The owner of the Cloud Crest Motel in Mt. Pocono said, "We definitely did more business this winter. Since Camelback opened we took in $1,000 more than usual. During the Washington's Birthday weekend we had to turn away more than 200 people."

Fred E. Schwenk, owner of Kane's Motel in Bartonsville, said, "We have had full houses over weekends and even had to turn some people away."

Louis Martinell, owner of the Scotrun Sport Shop and a tourist information booth, said, "We have had better weekends during this winter than ever before. People have been looking for room information on weekends and we have had to send them past Mt. Pocono for accommodations."

Sport Shops Thrive

The sport shops who directly service skiers with equipment report they are "sold out" practically every weekend. Most of the sport shops are planning to increase their stock before next winter in anticipation of even better winter trade in 1965.

Firms which service the motels, diners and resorts are the concrete evidence that business is on the rise. Almost without exception these service firms reported a brisk increase in business.

Paul Latzanich, co-owner of the Mt. Pocono Beverage Distributors, said, "We have shown an increase of at least ten per cent. It has been especially noticeable in the larger hotels."

Edward Keyser, sales manager of the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. in Allentown, a firm that services Monroe County, said, "Business has shown a strong increase in the whole area and has been especially good at Camelback."

Officials for the Coca Cola Bottling Co. in Palmerton have noted a similar increase in county business.

Distributors of milk—a product that is used almost universally and is a good business indicator—report a general increase in sales throughout the county.

Milk Sales Rise

Robert Irwin, owner of the Penn-Dell Dairy in East Stroudsburg, said, "We have found business on Rt. 611 around Camelback has been better than normal. Especially at Johnson's Diner at Scotrun, the Hickory Valley Restaurant and Tabard's Inn, both in Scotrun, and the Bartonsville Hotel.

Clair Smith of the Lehigh Valley Dairy in East Stroudsburg said, "During January of this year we noticed the largest increase we ever experienced."

Gas Sales Up

Gas stations throughout the area also have shown better than average sales. Walter Bowman of the W. S. Peeney Co., a fuel distributing firm in Stroudsburg, said, "I would say more gas has been sold this winter. The service stations we service in the Camelback area have been doing very well. A month ago one of the station owners told me he had the biggest day ever."

Local banking institutions report a curious aspect to the increased winter business among motel and resort owners.

Bank Loans Up

Instead of deposits being up, banks report loans are up anywhere from 10 to 25 per cent. This is a direct result of motels and resorts gearing themselves to handle the winter trade.

The additional profits these businesses have made this winter are being plowed back into such things as installing central heat and improving recreational facilities—previously attuned to the summer tourist.

If present plans calling for improvements and enlargements at Camelback and other ski areas are carried out business should be better next winter.

Camelback Expansion

Camelback announced it has tentative plans that include:

The installation of another 2,800 foot double chair lift and another T-Bar lift. These two proposed facilities will increase the present lift capacity from 2,000 to 3,000.

Cutting more trails between the Big Pocono and Marge's Delight trails. Increase the pipe carrying artificial snow to present slopes to service the new trails.

The size of the base lodge will be increased. The company is not sure whether it will build additional space next to the present lodge or increase the existing lodge.

Install lights on the beginners and intermediate Interstate trail areas.

Both Buck Hill and Split Rock have plans for expansion but they are not advanced enough to make them public at this time, both areas said.

James C. Scanlon filed the suit for the plaintiff.

The suit claims that on Oct. 9, 1962 at 9 a.m., Russell Kuder was driving the struck east on a tar road two miles from Saylorsburg when Pizzuto approached driving west. It further alleges that Pizzuto drove negligently and struck the left rear of the truck, incurring the damages.

Ex-Nazi Nabbed In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) A fugitive Nazi accused of organizing mass killings to aid Hitler's Germany of mental and physical cripples has been arrested in Argentina, the government said this week.

Dr. Gerhard Bohne, 61, fled West Germany last summer a few months before he was to go on trial as one of four major defendants in the Nazi euthanasia program which took 200,000 lives from 1939 to 1942.

The trial opened at Limburg, Germany, Feb. 18 without him, but even then authorities knew he had taken refuge in Argentina.

A spokesman for the West German Embassy said Argentina had been requested four weeks ago to extradite the man accused of heading the so-called mercy killing program in 1939-1940.

An Argentine government spokesman said extradition proceedings now are in progress. But he declined to say when or where Bohne was arrested.

Confirmation from Argentine authorities that Bohne was held came only after the arrest was announced at Frankfurt.

Chevelle balanced performance is best!

Passing, cornering, threading through traffic, sudden stops—Chevelle excels all around! Chevrolet's new surprise package has what it takes to meet any driving challenge: Six or V8 engines, hefty brakes, Full Coil suspension—and a trim size that makes the most of them!

We didn't just cook up a batch of engines for Chevelle and call it performance. You can get performance aplenty—standard 120-hp Six or 195-hp V8 for starters—and optional at extra cost there's a 155-hp Six, a 220-hp V8, even a new 327-cu.-in. V8! But Chevelle's performance means more.

Size, for instance. Chevelle's a foot shorter than the big cars. And the space Chevelle saves in size comes off the ends, not the middle. So it rides like you want a car to ride—comfortably—on a 115-inch wheelbase.

To give you the most out of this engine performance and riding comfort, Chevelle lets you choose Powerglide*, 4-speed manual* or 3-speed manual transmission.

And knowing it would strike the right note with a lot of different people, we gave Chevelle 11 models—in three series. Knowing how people like the custom touch, we wrote out a long list of extra-cost options. What's keeping you from a test drive? Certainly not your Chevrolet dealer!

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Whenever critics claim that newspapers play up the delinquents at the expense of the deserving, they certainly couldn't be thinking of today's family fare page which is practically taken over by the worthy accomplishments of young people.

There's Cecelia Lundergan winning the district bake-off, and Beverly Cortright as a Homemaker of the Year, and Lt. Patricia Van Why making the headlines in a city paper with her Timbrelist Brigade, and Junior Women designing and making their own Easter outfits, not to mention the Cubs and Boy Scouts. Oh yes, and the Miss Seventeen contestants.

Homemaking and baking, merit badges and modeling are teen-age accomplishments worth recognizing. Well so's dressmaking but the Junior Women are a little over their teens, so we'll just have to count them as post-teens.

And as a post-post-post Junior Woman, I had to chuckle over how closely their meeting with Dr. Abbruzzese followed my prediction. Just turn those young mothers loose with a psychologist and they're good for all night with their questions about how to handle Susie or Johnnie's tendencies toward whatever they're up to at this stage.

I'm sure they think their problems and the questions rising from those problems are unique in the history of children, and they would be amazed at how closely they parallel problems and questions of generations of young mothers.

The answers vary from time to time from the rigid timetable of pre-Dr. Spock, with feedings every four hours on the dot and no-picking up after bedtime, to the demand feeding and lets-give-'em-security of the newly resurrected rocker of today.

Fortunately mothers, even with the best intentions, have always cheated a little on rigid rules, with time-bound mothers doing a little cuddling on the sly and demand mothers making them wait at least until the cake was out of the oven. And somehow, with all the respect to psychologists, the children all seem to be turning out pretty well, if any system is tempered by love and just plain enjoyment of the children.

Frank Smith President Of Local Dutch Treat Club

Stroudsburg—Frank Smith, a member of the faculty at East Stroudsburg State College, was elected president of Dutch Treat Club at their final meeting of the season held after dinner at the Penn-Stroud Hotel on Tuesday night.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Charles Shatto, vice president; Miss Eva Hess, treasurer, and Mrs. Harold Lee, secretary. The new president has set up a meeting of his executive board when a tentative program will be set up for next year for the approval of the members.

For Grant Bartholomew, retiring president, it was a successful conclusion of his term of office with the audience terming the guest speakers, Helen and Frank Schreider, as one of the best of the year.

The Schreiders travels for the National Geographic Magazine took them to Indonesia. Through their colored film they shared their 13-month adventure from Sumatra to Timor. Hero of the journey was their amphibious jeep, which took them from the crowded capital of Djakarta through Java, climbing volcanos where sacrifice to the God of Fire is still performed, the bull races at Madura and to Bali's island paradise.

One of the severest tests of the jeep was the thousand miles of island hopping to reach Timor near the end of the chain of islands, many of which have not been visited by foreigners since before World War II. On some of the islands they lived like Robinson Crusoe, on others, they stalked the Dragon Lizards, prehistoric carryovers from the age of dinasours.

In addition to the interest in the films, the audience also shared in admiration for the courage and ingenuity the trip took for the young couple who did all of their own movie-taking and jeep-repairing as well as finding subsistance and living accommodations along the way.

Family Fare

By Bobby Westbrook

Do-it-Yourself Fashions, Child Psychology, Bazaar Keep Jr. Women Buzzing

Stroudsburg—In the question period which followed Dr. John Abbruzzese's talk on "Child Psychology" at the meeting of the Junior Woman's Club on Tuesday night at the Stroud Community club, mothers in the club were quick to take advantage of the opportunity to get professional viewpoint on their own problems and experiences with their own children.

"Firm discipline should be adhered to from the earliest years," Dr. Abbruzzese warned them, "And it will not be so difficult to apply during the teen years when parents are inclined to be lax in discipline at the time when it is most needed."

He gave examples of what is normal behavior in children and said that parents often expect too much from the child. When a child has a problem, it can often be traced directly back to the parents' behavior which children copy and reflect, he added.

He urged that mental health and stability be fostered as much as physical well-being in childhood. He was introduced by Mrs. Robert Hoffman, program chairman.

A second highlight was the fashion show of ensembles made *by four members with the win*ner to be entered in the State Sewing Contest in Scranton on March 18.

Mrs. David Lighttiser was chosen as the winner. She had made a three-piece suit in pink with a coordinated blouse. The reversible coat was lined in the blouse print and a handmade hat in pink completed the outfit.

Also scoring high in the judging were Mrs. Ralph Harrison with a blue and white check wool coat over a plain blue wool sheath dress a nd a hat she had designed and made of blue with matching blue and white trim; and Mrs. Jack Luckey in an aqua wool cape-coat over a sheath dress of white and aqua raw silk matching the coat lining. Her hat, which she also had designed and made was an aqua billbox, and her shoes had been dyed to match the ensemble.

Timbrelist Brigade Makes News For Young SA Lieut.

Syracuse, N. Y.—A young lieutenant in the Salvation Army, Miss Patricia Van Why, is making news in the Syracuse Herald American, through her work in reviving the Timbrelist Brigade in the Blandina Citadel, Utica, N. Y.

Lt. Van Why was born and educated in East Stroudsburg where she was graduated from the East Stroudsburg High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coco, of Minisink Hills, and was graduated from the Salvation Army Training School in 1963. She came to Utica last November from the Saratoga Springs Salvation Army.

Now spending most of her time in working with the young people of the Blandina Citadel, 21-year-old Lt. Van Why revived the Timbrelists after a 10-year lapse. Made up of seven girls the Timbrelist Brigade is designed to have an active part in the religious services of the Salvation Army.

They have already made three public appearances, the first at Christmas, at the United Fund dinner and in the chapel.

Lt. Van Why is also instructing a group of beginners, ranging from 7 to 12 years, in timbreling. She explained that the girls don't have to know music but all play different instruments by ear.

She also leads a group ranking from 14 to 30 known as the Torch Bearers, teaches recreation programs including crafts, and places emphasis on the religious work of the Salvation Army.

Lt. Van Why also preaches sermons during services, teaches a released time class for a day school of about 20 children and leads the Junior League, made up of boys and girls from 6 to 14 years of age.

FLOWER DAYS MARCH 6-7 WYCKOFF'S

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

In our Housewares Department here at Wyckoff's, I recently met a gentleman named Donald H. Robinson —a pleasant man with whom my late husband would have at least one thing in common: an almost incredible enthusiasm for Robeson knives. I can understand Mr. Robinson's great interest. He sells them. My husband didn't even have stock in the company, but he was a stickler for spending his money where it would do the most good . . . and he always vowed that no other knife on the market was as well made as a Robeson knife, or could give such long, hard wear.

"And he was right," Mr. Robinson declared emphatically when I explained these things to him. "At least, he was right then—how many years ago? Ten? Twenty? ..But now there is a knife that gives much longer wear than even the Robesons of that period. It too is a Robeson."

He then explained all about the latest development of the Robeson Cutlery Company—a knife edged with Tungsten Carbide. He showed me a sample. The edging is obvious only on one side—a tiny thread of substance that looks as granulated as an emory board running the length of the blade. Its being on only one side of the blade gives the knife a self-sharpening action . I'm not sure just how, but somehow it doesn't matter. As a housewife, my only concern is that this is so, and that the knife will remain sharp for years.

Not too long ago Robeson knives were processed by Frozen Heat, which hardens and tempers steel at 100 degrees below zero, making the blade very tough and highly resistant to dulling. Tungsten Carbide is something else again. It is the direct result of research done for the missile and rocket program, and is the hardest element known to man. It is detonated onto the side of a piece of Frozen Heat stainless steel at ten times the speed of sound and under 6000 degrees' temperature. Wavy, fluted edges give these knives increased cutability; allow cutting on points, and, in the ordinary cutting chores of the home, it will require many years before those points wear down enough to impair the blade's cutting quality.

The Union Carbide Corporation developed the process of applying Tungsten Carbide to other metals some 5 years ago, but only recently did the general buying public become aware of it, after noting the edging on the blades of household knives and electric knives. Robeson holds world wide patents, and Mr. Robinson tells me three machines are involved in the manufacture of the company's ever-increasing output. One is in Great Britain; the other two are in the United States. EACH costs ¾ of a million dollars; . . . doesn't that cut some ice with you, and make you aware that Robeson knives must sell . . . and sell . . . and SELL?

All Robeson knives are styled with handles of shur wood—a manmade petrified wood of dehydrated birch strips, chemicals, and resins laminated under 600 ton pressure. They are so hard, carbide-tip tools are required to shape them, and all are securely fastened to the blades with compression-type nickel silver rivets. They are burn-proof, boil-proof, and chip-proof.

"How many knives," I asked Mr. Robinson, "should the average homemaker have in her kitchen?"

"Well," he said, "if she had every knife available for a specific purpose she would have a fortune tied up in cutlery. But Robeson offers some excellent basic sets for brides at 7.99 and 10.00—knives that can cut anything, and if a housewife desires, she can build up her cutlery equipment from them. One thing, if they're Robeson, they'll give her years of service. If they are Tungsten-Carbide edged, they'll cost somewhat more but will give 14 times the service of even our Frozen Heat knife."

Since talking with him, I'm appalled that I had ever considered knives a dull subject! Shame on me.

200 Jam Hotel To Fete Schoonover

By KEN O'BRIEN
Daily Record Sports Editor

STROUDSBURG — A jam-packed crowd of nearly 200 persons honored Bill Schoonover, one of the finest Pocono Mountain athletic products, in the ballroom of the Penn-Stroud Hotel last night.

The 5-foot-11-inch, 210-pound football star who played for Stroud Union High School and Syracuse University was hailed by various sports personages as "a favorite son in the sports realm of the Poconos," a "boy who has a lot of potential and ability," and as "one helluva football player."

Highlighting the affair was the presentation of a cup to Schoonover from Bob Clark, managing editor of The Daily Record.

"This boy has meant a lot to Monroe County," said Clark. "He has done much for this area . . . His sportsmanship on and off the field has been tremendous."

Congratulatory telegrams were sent to the hotel from Jeannette Batory, register and recorder of Monroe County, and Stroud Union school officials Ceo Curtis and Earl F. Groner.

Ben Schwartzwalder, head football coach at Syracuse University, said of Schoonover: "Here's a boy who has a lot of potential and ability" and predicted he will "do a real fine job with the Cleveland Browns."

Schoonover is the first Pocono-Slate Belt athlete to sign a National Football League contract.

Schwartzwalder, noting the injuries that have beset Schoonover during his collegiate career, called Bill a "hard-nosed football player . . . who has come a long way."

He added that Bill "enjoyed his finest hour in the final game of the season against Notre Dame," and noted that "when the chips were down that's when he had it the most."

He concluded: "We're going to hear more about Billy Schoonover. We didn't do much for Bill, but he did a lot for us. He's a good boy and he's going to be somebody. He's somebody right now."

Jerry Stulgaitis, who resigned as head football coach last season at Stroud Union, said to Bill:

"I think the message this evening attempts to portray that we're trying to give you a little lift and help overcome any slough of despondency which may hit you at times in the future."

William Johnson, assistant secretary to Gov. Scranton, introduced Stulgaitis as "the guiding light of the coaching staff at Stroud Union the past 15 years." Johnson served as toastmaster of the affair.

John Whitehead, who coached Schoonover during his freshman and sophomore years at Stroud Union, said Bill "has become a special individual in the sport of football."

He added: "I hope you give it all you have and make us all even a little more prouder of you in the future."

Jim Ringo, center for the Green Bay Packers of the NFL and principal speaker of the evening, predicted a bright future for Schoonover.

"He has all the poise and confidence and competitiveness to face his newest challenge," said the all-pro center of the Packers.

"Bill Schoonover has grown into an adult," exclaimed Ringo. "There's a certain amount of confidence that Bill has gained by playing college football . . . He learned the will to win . . . He has gained a complete amount of confidence . . . These are prerequisites for the career in which he is embarking. This is the realm of professionalism."

He added that "Bill has the qualities to make the grade" and declared that "he will make Stroudsburg the proudest community on the Eastern seaboard."

Giants Trade Modzelewski For Cleveland's Crespino

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Giants traded defensive tackle Dick Modzelewski to the Cleveland Browns Wednesday for pass-catching specialist Bobby Crespino, reducing their once Fearsome Foursome to a Lonesome Onesome.

Defensive end Jim Katcavage became the only remaining member of the tough defensive quartet of Roosevelt Grier, Andy Robustelli, Modzelewski and Katcavage which terrorized National Football League rivals between 1956 and 1962 and led the Giants to five Eastern Division championships.

Grier, a 6-foot-5, 290-pound defensive tackle, was traded to the Los Angeles Rams last July 8 for John LoVetere, a 6-4 tackle weighing 285. Robustelli, 6-1, 235-pound end and assistant coach, retired recently to devote his full time to coaching.

Not Remaking Team

"This is no indication we are making over the Giants," Coach Al Sherman said, in announcing Wednesday's trade. "Players get older. Changes are necessary to keep pace with mounting competition.

"We traded Grier because we felt he might be losing his enthusiasm and a change of scenery might do him good. Modzelewski is 32 and is a veteran of 11 years in the league. Players have to go sometime. We were sorry to lose Robustelli, who is 36, as a player but happy to have him remain as a coach."

Robustelli and Katcavage, as ends, and Modzelewski and Grier, as tackles, began playing for the Giants as a unit in 1956. They immediately became the defensive terrors of the league, largely responsible for the Giants' winning Eastern titles in 1956, 1958, 1959, 1961 and 1962. In 1956, New York walloped the Chicago Bears 47-7 for the league championship.

During their period together, three of defensive giants—Robustelli, Modzelewski and Grier—never lost a minute of playing time. Katcavage was out for four games in 1960 with a shoulder separation and the Giants failed to win the divisional crown.

Formidable Four

The quartet became so formidable on defense that they soon inherited the nickname Fearsome Foursome. The entire defense became notorious also as the Eleven Hangmen.

LoVetere, 27, fit quickly into the Giants' defensive setup last fall and gave rise to a chant of the fans that went: "Lo, Mo, Ro, Kat"—short for LoVetere, Modzelewski, Robustelli and Katcavage. As a unit, the foursome prided itself as being tough to beat on the field, tough to spell in print.

Crespino, 25, is a 6-4, 225-pounder from Mississippi who was the Browns' first draft choice three years ago. Rated as an outstanding pass receiver, he saw little action with the Browns and reportedly asked to be traded.

Scranton Spurts Past ESSC In Final Hoop Tilt, 112-92

EAST STROUDSBURG — The East Stroudsburg State College hoop tribe went flat in the last eight minutes of the first half of its game with Scranton University last night—and ended up losing, 112-92.

The game was 19-all with 10 minutes and five seconds to go in the first half when the Warriors defense lagged and the Scrantonians, led by hot scorer Bill Witaconis — a little All-American — poured in the points to jump ahead, 56-39, at the half.

The game was even the rest of the way, with ESSC unable to close the bulge that Scranton had opened up.

Witaconis, making his final appearance for Scranton, pumped in 37 points. Other Scrantonians making finales were Don Shaffer, who managed 12 points, and Frank Cooper, who managed four tallies.

On the credit side for the Warriors, Dick Koch was high with 23 points. When all the shooting was over, Duane Ely had 20 points and Denny Marchalonis had 21 points.

Other double-figure scorers for Scranton were Lou Abeischer with 13 and Joe Castragiovoni with 11.

The Warriors made 21 fouls and Scranton committed 20.

Witaconis helped in this area also, fouling out of the contest with 2:34 to go.

ESSC made 22 of their 28 attempted free throws, and Scranton made 22 of 32 tries.

This was also the final game of the year for the Warriors, whose 1964 record ends at 5-15. Scranton, who had been losing toward the end of the season, finished with an 11-15 record.

Cooper was disappointing for Scranton fans, though the point production was high for the team. He made only four points.

Aces 1st In Small Cage Poll

Evansville, Ind., a Midwest basketball powerhouse, finished in first place in The Associated Press' final small-college poll of the 1963-64 season.

The Aces, whose three losses in 24 games were all to major opponents, are the second straight Midwest team to wind up on top in the final balloting. Wittenberg of Ohio was No. 1 last year.

Evansville drew five votes for first place and 74 points in the voting by a regional panel of eight selectors. Assumption took second place. The Greyhounds from Worcester, Mass., were followed by Grambling Pan American, Hofstra, Youngstown, Wittenberg, State College of Iowa, Washington of St. Louis and Kentucky Wesleyan.

The final voting was based on games through last Sunday.

The Aces, fourth-place finishers last season, have lost only to Notre Dame, Iowa and Arizona this year.

2 Die In Soccer Throngs

SUNDERLAND, England, (AP) — A teen-age girl and a middle-aged man died in a crush of football fans swarming to get into a big soccer match Wednesday night.

Ambulances raced up to the seething crowd struggling around Roker Park Stadium amid screams and calls for help. At least 50 persons were hauled off to the hospital.

The game was between Manchester United and Sunderland, two major teams replaying a match to see who should get into the semifinals of the English Soccer Cup final.

It all ended in a 2-2 tie — meaning the whole thing will have to be played again.

About 65,000 people battled their way into the grounds. Outside was a frantic crowd of about the same size which failed to fight past the turnstiles.

At one point the frustrated fans surged forward and battered down two 10-foot high fences put up to keep them out.

Others scaled the outside of the grandstand and crawled across the roof into view of the playing field.

Inside the stadium, the excitement was almost as high. When Sunderland scored a goal hundreds dashed on to the field in a riot of ecstacy. Police pushed them off.

Ohio State's Bradds Named Top 1964 Cager

NEW YORK (AP) — Gary Bradds, the 6-foot-8 All-America at Ohio State who reeled off six successive performances of 40 points and up, was named the college basketball Player of the Year for 1964 by The Associated Press Wednesday.

The Buckeye star gained the distinction by a narrow margin over Cotton Nash of Kentucky's Southeastern Conference champions from the 371 sports writers and broadcasters who chose the AP's 1964 All-America team.

Bradds collected 215 firsts and 62 seconds in the annual balloting for the All-America. On the basis of five points for a first and two points for a first and two points for a second, this gave the Big Ten star from Jamestown, Ohio, a total of 1,199 points.

Nash, a native of Lake Charles, La., whose family now lives in Leominster, Mass., was close behind with 207 firsts and 62 seconds for 1,159 points.

It was the closest finish in the four years that The Associated Press has named a Player of the Year and returns the honor to the school where Jerry Lucas won it in 1961 and 1962. Art Heyman of Duke won last season.

Walt Hazzard, who led the top-ranked UCLA Bruins to the Big Six title, finished third in the voting with 195 firsts and 1,087 points over-all. Then came Bill Bradley of Princeton with a 783total and Dave Stallworth of Wichita with 765. Bradley and Stallworth each got 123 firsts.

Durslag On Sports:

Hill Rise Seen Top 1964 Derby Threat

By Melvin Durslag

ARCADIA, Calif. At just about this time each year, when the moon is full and good gains are seen for those bearing the sign of Pisces, there develops world comes to know as the a creature of destiny which the "California Derby Threat."

A California Derby Threat is a quadruped which arrives in Louisville with a blanket that is continental cut, with ankle-high shoes sharply pointed and sunglasses. And, naturally, the tattooed number on the lip is unlisted.

What happens to these personalities in the race should only happen to the Beatles. They leave Kentucky sad and disillusioned, hoping everyone there chokes on his blue grass, and they return to their celestial paradise in the sun, blaming their misadventure on their agent.

There have been exceptions. Swaps, for instance, checked into Churchill Downs as very much of a California Derby threat, and he went wire to wire.

Two years ago, Decidedly came to town not as a threat, but with credentials so thin that they never even sent a car and driver to meet him at the plane.

He responded by setting a track record for the mile and a quarter of 2:00 two-fifths and restoring to California a measure of respect which Candy Spots proceeded to louse up at Louisville last year.

Now the owner of Decidedly, The El Peco Ranch, has come up with a new California colossus by the name of Hill Rise, which has won six in a row, including the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby last Saturday, and may be the best thing to hit Kentucky since sour mash.

Hill Rise is a large, easy striding animal which has been to the post eight times. After running third the first two, he developed a winning habit which seems to have crystallized. Unmistakably, he and Northern Dancer are the two warmest prospects for the derby, which means, of course, that they must run the same risk as everyone else of getting their pockets picked in Louisville.

The proprietor of El Peco Ranch, George Pope, Jr. Admits readily that the chances of Hill Rise could diminish in going other than fast. The horse never has started in heavy or sloppy stuff and, by the owner's appraisal, isn't bred for mud.

"Hill Rise's sire, Hillary, couldn't stand up in mud," says Pope, "and his grandfather, Khaled, hasn't produced much of anything that likes an off track, either. Of course, you can't tell for sure how Hill Rise will do in it until he tries. But I wouldn't be overly optimistic at this time."

Pope is the fortunate grandson of a man who came to California for the gold rush in 1849 and bought 16,000 acres of land in the San Joaquin Valley at prices ranging from 10 to 15 cents an acre.

A lot of guys today are wondering why their grandfathers didn't have the same foresight. By official measurement, California embraces 158,693 square miles, and no one in my family had the decency to leave me an inch of it.

Pope not only inherited all the acreage of what came to be known as the El Peco Ranch, but got a steamship line and an enormous lumber business tossed in.

It was little wonder that he should take up polo.

Rising to a six-goal rating, he went from there to other pursuits and then on to the care and breeding of fine thoroughbreds. He is an unpretentious man. San Francisco Peninsula Society, casual in his attire of old moccasins, gray slacks, blue coat with gold buttons and a striped tie.

It is the sort of get-up that a guy with no money couldn't afford to be seen in.

When Hill Rise put six lengths between himself and the second horse in the Santa Anita Derby, the suspense in the race strangely vanished, except for the struggle for lesser places.

Afterward, the track released statements from Don Pierce, rider of the winning horse, and from jockeys astride the colts finishing second, fourth and fifth.

Curiously missing was a quote from Willie Hartack, known in cafe society as Bill, who took the third money on Wil Rad. The statement from the track read:

"Mr. Hartack preferred to make no comment."

Apparently, this was by mutual agreement with his mount, because the horse had nothing to say about Willie's ride, either.

Pen Argyl School Board Adopts Teacher-Pay Policy

PEN ARGYL — Pen Argyl Joint School Committee this week hired a baseball coach, awarded bids, adopted a new policy and granted permission to several teachers to attend conventions.

Joseph Yanuzzi was named an assistant baseball coach at a salary of $200 for the 1964 season.

Contracts were awarded to Lim's Quality Sports Shop of Stroudsburg and Lewis J. Bruschi of Bangor for equipment. Lim's contract is for $143.26 and Bruschi's contract is for $381.25.

Bids from Grube and Betts of Easton were not considered because they were not accompanied by a certified check or bid bond as required.

The committee approved a policy giving teachers two days off with pay for emergencies and three days off for death in the immediate family.

In other business, the committee amended the rules covering school trips. The amendment does not allow student - operated vehicles from being used on school - sponsored trips.

Commends PTA

Supervising Principal William E. Madden released a letter he sent to the Pen Argyl PTA. The letter commended the organization for its recent stand defending the teaching profession from remarks made at a public board meeting last week. The committee moved to file his letter.

Mrs. Anna Kress, music teacher, and Edward Pavilk, band director, were given permission to attend the National Music Educators Assn. convention in Philadelphia.

The committee also granted permission to David Godshall, industrial arts teacher, to attend the American Industrial Arts Assn. convention in Washington, D.C.

The committee voted to give each teacher $20 a day expense allowance while attending the conventions.

The committee also rescinded earlier action to advertise for bids for a set of kettle drums and two sousaphones and agreed to solicit quotations by letter.

Ask Valachi For Philly Hearing

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The attorney for Russell Bufalino, a Kingston, Pa., businessman fighting deportation, asked this week to have Joseph Valachi appear for the hearings here.

Valachi, serving a sentence for murder, recently testified before a U.S. Senate committee about his membership in underworld syndicate known as Cosa Nostra.

William Taffet, an examiner for the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, said the matter relating to Valachi was not before him at this time, but that it may come up later. He said he would rule then whether to call Valachi.

Bufalino faces deportation as an undesirable. His hearing was ordered last June by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia to examine whether there had been prejudgment in earlier hearings. The hearing also will take up whether a discretionary stay of deportation can be granted.

After a two-hour session, the hearing was continued until March 23.

Easter Seal Drive Opens; '63 Expenditures Listed

STROUDSBURG — Directors of Monroe County Crippled Children and Adults Society have completed plans for the Easter Seal Campaign in the area. The action was taken at the society's recent meeting in the Monroe County YMCA.

The campaign started March 1 and will end March 29.

Mrs. Ruth E. Brown, treasurer and chairman of the drive, said that more than 13,000 letters have been sent to residents of the county.

She also told the society the receipts and expenditures of the 1963 campaign.

"Gross receipts were $6,113.01 and a breakdown of the expenditures is as follows: supplies and mailing of Easter Seals, $850; wheel chairs, braces and crutches, $675; eight children sent to summer camp for handicapped, $1,364; support of the Monroe Chapter of Pennsylvania Retarded Children for summer camp, $200; for winter YMCA program, $500," she said.

"Hospital bills for handicapped, $168; 8.3 per cent for the national society, $507; 15.7 per cent for state society, $960; 2 per cent for special research, $122; social operating expenses, $75; conferences and workshop, $3,000, and $25 for miscellaneous items," she added.

In a recent bulletin from the organization, it was shown that the state and national contributions from local organizations helped 89 different types of research programs to be carried on, including cerebral palsy, birth defects, rehabilitation, bone formation and destruction, neuro-muscular defects, brain injuries, polio victims. These programs cost $1,700,000 in 1963.

In other business a quota of ten children from Monroe County to be sent to summer camps for a four week period was approved. The quota came from the state organization.

Also discussed was the purchase of needed equipment for the new physio-therapy department in the new addition of the General Hospital of Monroe County.

No action was taken on it as the equipment may cost more than $4,000 and will only be made possible through contributions from the Easter Seal Campaign.

Cub Pack's Efforts Gain Council Trophy

NEWFOUNDLAND — "I've never seen a Cub Scout unit organized so quickly and so well," John Tobey, chairman of Lakes District, told 91 cubs, parents, families and guests during the Blue and Gold banquet of Cub Pack 129, held at the school.

"I take my hat off to you," he added. "Your pack earned us the Council Trophy. We were in second place for eleven months, and then, with your organization, we won it."

The pack was reactivated in October, 1963, after remaining inactive since 1957. It had originally been chartered in 1950.

Ray LaVigne, cubmaster, announced that four new cubs, Scott Bartleson, Michael Bartleson, Doug Krautter and Teddy Carr had been welcomed into the pack.

Ralph Shupe, advancement chairman, presented the following awards to cubs and their parents: Bobcats — James Butler, Paul Evans, David Wasylyk, Raymond Lutz; Wolf — Blaine Strada, Ray LaVigne, Edward Smith; Bear — Billy Webster; Gold Arrow — Mark Smith, Glenn Stecher and Ralph Shupe, Jr.

Honor guests introduced by Earl Lutz, secretary - treasurer of the committee, were Mr. Shupe; Gene Webster, assistant cubmaster; Paul Strada, membership chairman; Rev. Larry Lindenmuth, institutional representative; Peggy Bancroft; the Rev. Denton Covert; Richard McLain, scoutmaster; John Tobey; Andrew Stecher, chairman; Elmer Becker, PTA president.

Den One, including Mark Smith, Tom Muller, John Lutz, Ray Lutz and Dale Gearhart, displayed candles of faith, wisdom, courage, self-control, justice, hope and love. Their Den Chief is Warren Van Buskirk and den mothers are Elaine Muller and Evelyn Smith.

Den Two led in the presentation of the colors and the flag salute. They were Steve and Dave Wasylyk, Ray LaVigne, George Gifford, Tom Hettes, Rance Pettengill, Scott and Mike Bartleson and Teddy Carr. Den Chief is Jim Wasylyk, and Denmother is Mary Wasylyk.

Den Three, including Bill Webster, Glenn Stecher, Blaine Strada, Ralph Shupe, Jim Hutchins, Jim Butler and Douglas Krautter, presented the Cub Scout Promise with the lighting of candles. Den chief is Ben Nevin and Denmothers are Jean Shupe and Elsie Strada.

The Webelos, led by Roy McLain, also participated in the program. They were James Gifford, James Muller, and Rance Cykosky.

Firemen Fight Firemen's Fire

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Who fights a fire station fire when fire fighters are out fighting fires elsewhere?

Other firemen, that's who.

When a blaze broke out Monday at the station at 3516 N. Broadway, with Engine Co. 70 barreling toward another alarm, another unit alerted by radio dashed to the scene.

They quickly triumphed over the fire, behind the fire house, in a trash barrel.

Hungarian Churches

PRAGUE, Hungary (AP) — The Hungarian Office for Church Affairs says there are 6,628 churches in the country. Of 902 churches damaged in World War II, the report says, 97 per cent of them have been renovated.

Area Firm's Suspension Postponed

NEWARK, N.J. — The U. S. Department of Agriculture reported yesterday it has postponed to May 12 the effective date of a suspension order in the Packers and Stockyards Act case against Wayne County Livestock Exchange, Inc., a Honesdale, Pa., livestock marketing firm.

In an order issued Feb. 27, USDA Judicial Officer Thomas J. Flavin postponed the effective date of the 30-day suspension he previously ordered against the firm, from March 12 to May 12.

Request Ruling

The firm requested the postponement because it claimed farmers in Wayne County depend upon the firm for the sale of their calves, and a suspension beginning March 12 would come at the height of the calf marketing season.

The postponement resulted from a Feb. 11 order issued by the Judicial Officer, based upon a complaint made by the Packers and Stockyards Division of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service. Division officials had alleged the firm violated the P&S Act in connection with its livestock weighing practices and in the operation of its livestock scales.

A public hearing was held on the charges. Based upon the hearing, the Judicial Officer concluded that the firm violated the Act as charged. He then issued the February 11 order, suspending the firm for 30 days, and directing it to cease and desist from the illegal practices.

Home Grown Grapes Edible Now

LATE GRAPES: Seems odd to be talking about eating home - grown grapes this time of the year, doesn't it. A friend of ours gave us some Sheridan grapes (blue), picked in October of 1963 and are edible in March of 1964. She placed them in the bottom of her refrigerator where they kept beautifully all this while.

You can't do this to all grapes. You have to start with a late variety and Sheridan is one.

The berries on Sheridan are large and the skin is tougher than that on other blue grapes. Even the flavor is a bit different. Catawba is another late grape with good flavor and keeping ability. Clusters are large and well formed. This is a red grape well worth trying in the backyard.

Any good eating grapes you pick for late storage should be selected with care. If one of the berries has a spot, it may cause the whole cluster to rot. The old trick of storing the grape clusters amidst green grape leaves is sound.

While you're looking through the nursery catalog, take a look at a red type; known as Caco, a fancy table grape with a sweet juicy flavor.

MICE CONTROL: Mice are prolific rodents. A single pair of house mice has about 60 young a year, and their children, grandchildren, great - grandchildren do likewise so speedily that right now there are more mice than people in the U.S.

You can do a lot to cut down on the mouse population by using good mouse baits found in garden supply stores.

Read the ingredients listed on the packages. You might want to try one of the new safer baits such as Prolin. Ingredients of these new baits are warfarin (a blood anticoagulant) developed at the University of Wisconsin. Such a bait sends rodents into a gradual decline rather than kill immediately.

Some Prolin baits come in self - feeder packages or you can do-it - yourself with small containers like fruit jar lids sheltered with a "lean-to" board or with a cigar box with a mouse - inviting door.

SEEDLINGS: Gardeners who have boxes of seedlings will soon be ready for the job of transplanting. Quite often the young plants die off following transplanting to pots or boxes.

What causes this mortality? It might be the way you dig them out and handle them. Cut out blocks of seedlings with a trowel and transplant each young plant separately, without breaking the roots. Carefully pry each seedling loose, rather than jerking or pulling them out.

If the roots are broken you're apt to leave the seedlings open to infection and that's one reason for the plants dying after transplanting. After transplanting, you can water each pot with a clothes sprinkler and move to a bright window.

If you find that the seedlings are getting a bit too tall, pinch them back a bit to make them bushy. Pinching simply means nipping out the growing tip with your thumb and forefinger.

DOG TROUBLE: We're getting letters asking what can be done to keep dogs from ruining evergreens. This is a perennial problem and there's no easy answer to it because most of us are dog lovers.

Some suggestions for keeping dogs off the premises work and some don't. These include: Nicotine sulfate, 1 teaspoon to a quart of water and sprayed on the bushes; mothballs scattered at the base of the plants or in lawns; hot pepper dusted on bushes; ammonia dipped in cotton and hung among branches; growing scented plants near evergreens.

The odor is repulsive. Such plants include marigold, calendula, basil and other herbs.

Green Thumb note: If you have any other method for coping with dogs, please send them to me so we can incorporate them in a bulletin and send them out free to our readers.

PESTICIDES: Used with care, pesticides aren't as bad as we've been led to believe. The first thing you should do is read the label. Use the dose recommended. The theory that "If a little is good, more is better" went out with the horse and buggy. Avoid harmful residues on crops from treating too close to harvest. Store insecticides carefully, and if you happen to get any on your body, wash it off immediately.

COLEUS: If you want a real show for outdoor beds, window or porch boxes, then grow plenty of coleus, a popular foliage plant native to Java. Right now would be a fine time to sow seed for planting outdoors in Mid-May.

You can buy seed of rich reds, yellows, coppers, pinks and pastel shades of these. Coleus seed like it warm for best germination, so sow seed in a sand - peat mixture and store in a room with 75 degs. F. temperature until germinating time.

When the seedings are up move to a bright window and grow them until 1 inch tall, then transplant to 3 inch pots. After danger of frost is over, plant outdoors and injoy the colorful foliage from June to frost.

The value of coleus depends upon their decorative foliage, not flowers, so it's best to pinch out the buds as they begin to form. Pinching the tops back is good for the plants because it makes them nice and bushy. And don't forget that coleus is the ideal plant for shady or semi-shady locations.

Another good plant for the partially - shaded area is the annual begonia (Begonia semperflorens). These have waxy green leaves and come in a deep rose, white, a bi-colored white with pink edge and soft pink. Sow seed in a light mix (plenty of organic matter, such as peat).

Question Box

QUESTION OF THE WEEK — E. T. of Tobyhanna: "I wish you'd tell us how to raise those big 'hamburger' onions. We tried them last year and the bulbs grew the size of golf balls. The soil probably lacks something."

The secret to growing big sweet onions is "fast growth". That means you should get them in early so they'll be nicely established before hot weather sets in.

Anything which checks growth (such as dry soil or hard ground) will result in small bulbs and they'll be hotter than blazes. During dry spells it will pay to keep the plants watered.

Anyone with a reasonably good garden soil can grow big sweet onions, some weighing 2 lbs a piece, if you keep them watered. If you want a good extra early "Hamburger" onion try a variety known as "Early Harvest".

This hybrid is mild has a yellow skin and a small neck.

There are two fallacies about growing large onions. Don't knock the tops down in midsummer. Some people run over them with a light roller and this is not necessary. The next is that onion sets and plants should be planted in the soil, not merely resting on the surface.

If you want a big onion for summer and early fall use, grow Early Harvest. If you want one for winter storage, try the Sweet Spanish, a fine keeper.

E. T. of Easton: "Last spring we had a frost which ruined many of our strawberries. The yield was poor. I understand if you put a sprinkler on the patch it will prevent frost injury. Is that true? We thought the ice would form on the plants and do even more damage."

Many commercial growers use irrigation to combat the menace of frost in early spring. Heat given off by the water as it freezes on the plants prevents damage, even though there may be sheets of ice over the entire patch.

Water sprinkled continuously on plants at one tenth of an inch per hour will protect plants down to 20 degs. F. Less water is needed with higher temperatures. Irrigation will give protection to some annual flowers, as well as several vegetable plants.

H. T. of Augusta: "We have vines of poison ivy climbing our apple trees. Please tell us how we can kill them."

You can spray the vines with a good weedkiller, such as Ammate, 2,4,5-t, Amino - triazole or 2,4-D. This spring you can cut the vine and dip the end of it in a jar of weedkiller.

The plant absorbs the chemical through the leaves, causing the vine to commit suicide. This works fine when a weed (such as poison ivy) is too near a tree to spray. Old motor oil dumped on a vine will kill it but you have to be persistent.

Plot Smashed In Syria

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—The *government says a plot for an*other coup has been smashed with the arrest of 50 persons.

The regime of Ba'Athist Socialists itself has been in power little more than a year, having overthrown a regime that over*threw another regime.*

The announcement Tuesday did not say who was behind the latest plot. In Syria's power politics, it is the practice to blame all plots of coups on President Nasser's Egypt.

Ethiopians Withdraw

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Ethiopian troops have pulled back from Somali's frontier and Ethiopia is ready to enter direct talks with its neighbor on frontier problems, Foreign Minister Ketema Yifru said Monday.

Not that Ethiopia is ready to consider Somalia's claims to the Ogaden region, which provoked frontier skirmishes last month. Yifru told reporters: "No sensible government will have its territory an issue for negotiation." He gave no clue as to what else he thought the two *nations could talk about in di*rect negotiations.

Kennedy Library Gets $100,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government of Venezuela said Tuesday it will contribute $100,000 to the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Library, thus becoming the first foreign government to earmark funds for the project.

The announcement was made by Venezuelan Ambassador Enrique Tejera Paris in a ceremony at the Venezuelan Embassy attended by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, brother of the slain president.

More than $4.1 million of the $10 million needed for the Cambridge, Mass., memorial, has been collected.

Superliner Specs Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House released without comment this week a report recommending that the program to develop a supersonic airliner be:

1. Rearranged to provide for development of two fullscale flying prototypes, for at least a year of flight testing before venturing into the costly production program.

2. Re-oriented to have the fed*eral government* pay up to 90 per cent of the initial development costs instead of the 75 per cent now contemplated, thus easing the financial risk to the aircraft industry.

3. Taken out of the hands of the Federal Aviation Agency and entrusted to a small temporary agency, to be known as the Supersonic Transport Authority, reporting directly to the President.

Control Center Work Near End

STROUDSBURG — Two area contractors are completing a reconditioning of the Stroudsburg Control Center in the Municipal Building at 7th and Sarah Streets.

Morris Fazio is doing the ceiling work and Richard Franz is handling the painting.

Before the contractors began the renovation work on the center, which also serves as police headquarters, the walls and ceiling were of a dark gray color. Now the interior is a light gray with fluorescent lighting, acoustical tile and dark chocolate-colored trim.

Renovation disrupted the police routine to some extent, but, everything is almost in order again.

Harold E. Snyder, borough manager, said "At this time we do not have the cost figures; but, we will have them when the job is completed."

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Do not let a flatterer's words cause you to forget someone less outspoken, nor a glamorous description or display turn your mind from the solid, real things. Keep true values in mind.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Being a natural leader, others look to you for guidance, stimulus. Supply it generously. They will be grateful and you will reap representative reward.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — If you cannot accomplish in one way, you can in another. Remember the many feats you have achieved, the records you have broken, which you thought impossible in the past.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — A sense of responsibility and good judgment will be important now. Know what is expected of you, but do not take on everything asked — only what you should, and can do in the time available.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — Voluntary effort in all worthwhile areas will be highly appreciated, but make only promises you can keep. Avoid hectic activities, arguments. Go forward with poise.

Cy Barrett Says

Duplicated Articles

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.

DEAR CY:

I am one of those guys who would like to write adventure stories for men, but have been stopped cold. The April issues of "True" and "Argosy" magazines both carry big articles on the Nazi treasure hoard hidden in Lake Toplitz, Hitler's redoubt in the Austrian Tyrol. The "Argosy" article, by John Dornberg, is entitled, "The Treasure of The Dead Mountains," while "True's," by Geoffrey Bocca, is "Last Valhalla of the Nazis.' There must be a lot of duplication of articles submitted to magazines. How can I avoid being a me-too?

RENFREW

DEAR RENFREW:

Until a writer is established, he must submit manuscripts to buyers, hoping for the best. After that, he (or his agent) can clear assignments prior to writing, and even receive cash in advance. Irving Wallace was recently paid a six-figure sum by movie moguls for a novel which may not yet be lodged in his head.

Don't run the risk of being a me-never by fearing competition. Write till your fingertips turn blue, and you earn the reputation of literary pest (but a creative one). The law of averages is on your side. Students of writing would do well to examine the two articles you mention. Both are on the same subject, published at the same time, but Geoffrey Bocca's rendition in "True" emerges much the finer piece of craftsmanship.

CY

DEAR CY:

I am 22 years old and have a physical defect with my right hand. The Vocationa Rehabilitation department of our state has tried to help me since August, 1962. Here it is 1964 and they haven't found me a job! Once a week, I make it my business to go down and see my counselor and ask if he has found me work. I don't believe he is trying very hard. What shall I do?

MISSY

DEAR MISSY:

In the same mail bag with your letter was one from a reader who lost her hand in an industrial accident 14 years ago. She has been working productively for the past 13 years and wrote me about developing a new product. Her letter was signed off with: "There are so many good things I could do for people in need if I just had a little extra money. I didn't mean to write you a U.S. history but am putting my heart on paper."

Let's be blunt, Missy. A 21-year-old handicapped person is prime material for rehabilitation. It's the 50 year old-plusser who represents the big problem. During 1963, the U.S. Department of Vocational Rehabilitation brought 102,378 persons to self-supporting status. The mental attitude of each was of critical importance. They could be shown the high wire, but sooner or after had to grasp courage and walk it alone.

CY

DEAR CY: I am married to a handsome man and am not too bad a dish myself, if my husband's presence, and those of his friends, I usually end up saying the wrong thing. I just turned 21 so this will be my first year of voting. I don't know anything about politics but want to be an informed voter. If I just knew what to study and where to go for information, my personal business problems would be over. Marriage can be a woman's business, you know.

DOLLY H.

DEAR DOLLY:

If being an informed voter will cure foot-in-mouth disease, Dolly, I'll buy a little myself. Search out the League of Women Voters of the United States, 1026 17th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C., 20006, for location of the nearest group. Ask for a list of the available information. Then, read your newspaper religiously. You could end up as the hostess with the mostest (in the head).

CY

Put Cy to work on your Personal Business Problems! Write Cy Barrett, c-o this newspaper, but please include a stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

"Hello, Thrift Shop?
I have some things
I want to dispose of.
Could you pick them up? . . .
Yes, a pair of girl's
white figure skates,
size 3, practically new.
A girl's 24-inch
medium-weight bike.
A pair of child's aluminium stilts. Some good clothing, too . . .
They were my little niece's.
She's! . . . She won't be needing them . . . ever again. Her mother would like some other little girl to have them."

Drivers kill and cripple more children than any disease!

We have a vaccine for polio. And it works. Our best medical researchers say we're zeroing in on cancer. But what are we doing to wipe out the worst child killer of all—traffic accidents? Yes, drivers—careless drivers—kill and cripple more children than any disease! Here's one thing you can do. That everyone ought to do. Write to your local enforcement officials. Tell them:

"I Support Strict Law Enforcement!"

When officials know they have the backing of the community, they can do a far more effective job of protecting your children. In communities all over the country, the records prove it: Where traffic laws are strictly enforced and obeyed, deaths go down!

In Memoriam 5

In loving memory of Mr. Lawrence Transue, aged 66, who passed away Feb. 5, 1963.
Sleep on our beloved while years come and go;
Each brings us but closer to you;
And the day we shall meet in the bright afterglow,
When our life's lonely journey is through.
Sadly missed by
MRS. LAURA TRANSUE, BERNICE AND CHILDREN

Card Of Thanks 6

I wish to take this means of expressing sincere thanks and appreciation for the sympathy and assistance rendered by many neighbors and friends in my bereavement in the loss of my husband, Grant E. Knowles; also for the floral tributes and the loan of autos for the funeral.

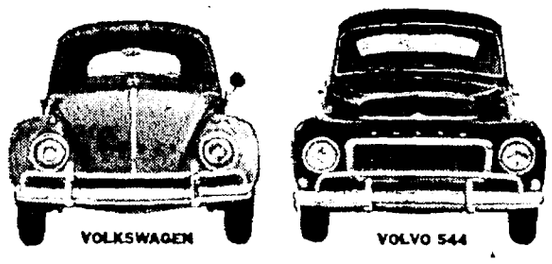
USED CARS

We'd like to clear up some misconceptions we may have been guilty of fostering.

A number of people have asked us how we get away with advertising Volvo as America's biggest selling imported compact car when everybody knows that Volkswagen is America's biggest selling imported compact car.



VOLKSWAGEN VOLVO 544

The answer is simple. Volkswagen is not a compact. It's an economy car. VW is built small to carry you from here to there at the least possible cost. Volvo is built family-size to carry you from here to there at the least possible cost.

VW does its job so well it gives you over 25 miles to a gallon. Volvo does its job so well it also gives you over 25 miles to a gallon. VW is built so well that used ones sell for nearly as much as new ones. Volvo is built so well you have trouble finding a used one. So much for misconception number one.

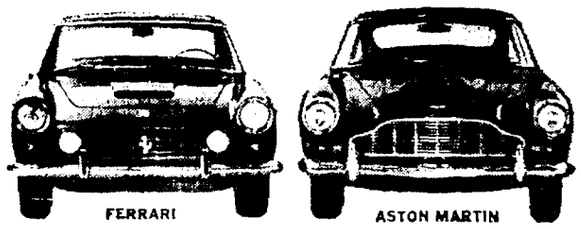
Misconception number two is price. Far too many people (for our comfort) think a Volvo costs quite a bit more than a Corvair, Falcon or Valiant compact. Valiant, the lowest priced of the three, lists at $1910, for example. The lowest priced Volvo lists at $2330*.

But unless you add a four-speed synchromesh transmission, bucket seats, safety belts, padded dash and padded sun visors, dual carburetors, whitewalls, undercoating and a few other things to a Valiant it won't have what a Volvo's got.

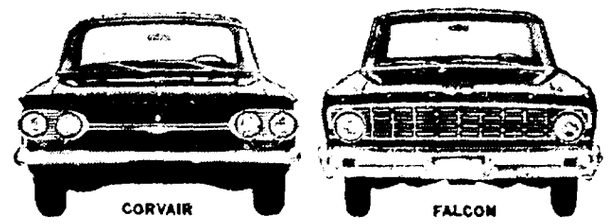
And when you do add those things you won't get a Valiant for any $1910. It'll be right along with Volvo in price. The only thing is, it won't be right along with Volvo in performance. But then, neither is the Falcon or Corvair. A Volvo will out-accelerate all three of these cars in every speed range.

Which brings us to misconception number three: A high-performance engine needs a lot of care. We'll let Sports Car Graphic, authoritative automotive magazine answer that one, "Project Volvo came off the dynamometer at the Autolite Test Facility after one of the most severe tests we have ever put a Project engine through. Perhaps the foremost bit of education we acquired was learning that the Volvo B-18 engine is one of the most, if not THE most, reliable, rugged and unbreakable car engines being built today."

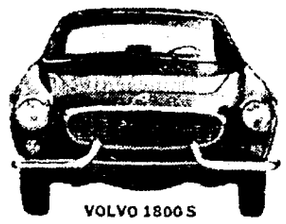
And now a word about the Volvo 1800S. We don't think there are any misconceptions about the 1800S because it's pretty much in a class by itself. As Road & Track, another authoritative automotive magazine puts it, "The 1800S is a very civilized touring car for people who want to travel rapidly in style, a Gran Turismo car of the type much in the news these days—but at a price that many people who cannot afford a Ferrari or Aston Martin will be able to pay." You pay over $10,000 for a Ferrari or an Aston Martin. You pay $3995* for a Volvo 1800S. Can you see $6,005 worth of difference? (Neither will anyone else.)



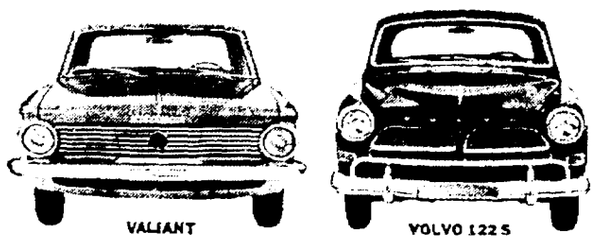
FERRARI ASTON MARTIN



CORVAIR FALCON



VOLVO 1800S



VALIANT VOLVO 122S

Your Volvo dealer will be happy to have you take one of his cars out for a drive on your own.

And we promise right here and now that the next Volvo advertisement is going to be shorter. All we plan to talk about is how Volvos last an average of 11 years in Sweden.

Judge Rhodes Looks To Life On Farm

SCRANTON — Superior Court President Judge Chester H. Rhodes looks forward to spending more time on his 80-acre farm outside Stroudsburg when he retires from the bench next January after 30 years' service on the appellate court.

Judge Rhodes, who assumed the presidency of the seven-member court in Scranton 17 years ago Sunday, has participated in most of the annual sessions of the court in Scranton during his long tenure on the bench.

The president judge let the opening of the session pass Tuesday without any formal remarks from the bench. He was presented with a scroll by the Lackawanna Bar Association at the annual dinner in honor of the Superior Court judges in Hotel Casey Monday night.

Judge Rhodes said in Scranton he has enjoyed his judicial career but approaches retirement with some trepidation as to how he will be able to occupy his time after he is relieved of his manifold court duties.

Judge Rhodes is married to the former Helen M. Hauser, Stroudsburg, who was a classmate at the old Stroudsburg Normal School of Attorney Harry Needle, veteran member of the Lackawanna Bar. The Rhodes have one son, Dr. John F. Rhodes, Lehighton.

Judge Rhodes is a native of Gouldsboro, Wayne County. He was born on Oct. 19, 1887. He attended the School of Lackawanna, Scranton, and Muhlenberg College, Allentown, and earned his bachelor of arts degree in 1910 and his master's degree in 1912 at Lehigh University, Bethlehem.

He holds honorary degrees of doctor of laws from Pennsylvania Military College, Muhlenberg, Gettysburg College and Dickinson School of Law.

Admitted to the Monroe County Bar on Oct. 4, 1913, Judge Rhodes served as Monroe County solicitor from 1918 to 1920 and Monroe County district attorney from 1920 to 1922 when he resigned upon his election to the House of Representatives.

He served in the House during the sessions of 1922, 1924, 1926, 1930 and 1932, when he was first elected to the Superior Court. He was re-elected in November, 1944, and November, 1954.

Judge Harold L. Ervin of Drexel Hill will succeed Judge Rhodes as president judge of the Superior Court.

Advisory Unit's Duties Outlined

EAST STROUDSBURG—Jesse Flory, chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee of East Stroudsburg, recently outlined the duties and responsibilities of the committee to all planning agencies of East Stroudsburg.

The committee is the basis for the promotion and continuation of all planning activities in East Stroudsburg.

Leon Zacher, chairman of the sub-committee on housing for relocatees of the Urban Renewal Projects suggested that representatives of the Master Builder's Assn. and the various financial institutions in the area meet with a representative from the FHA to learn about FHA mortgage provisions and steps necessary to provide low priced new housing at a very low down payment with a long period of payment.

Other business included the establishment of sub-committee for zoning and codes. They are the redevelopment, financing and planning committees.

The Citizens Advisory Committee will meet the first Monday in each month in the offices of the Redevelopment Authority. All interested citizens are urged to attend the meetings.

Musicians Accept 2 New Members

BANGOR — Two new members, Berger W. Jones of Mt. Bethel RD 1 and Kenneth L. Yetter of Pen Argyl, were received as members of Bangor-Stroudsburg Local, 577 of the American Federation of Musicians.

Carl Rice, president, was named delegate to the national musicians convention to be held in Portland, Ore., June 15 through 19.

The union received thank you notes for music provided through the recording and transcription fund from following: The Saylorsburg Evangelical Church; the Seventh-day Adventist School in Stroudsburg; and the East Bangor PTA.

Fred Sabatine, project chairman of the fund, announced the Roseto Cornet Band will tour Roseto on Easter Sunday.

Reports were submitted by Samuel Canova, secretary-treasurer, and it was announced the local would not hold a picnic this year.

Prices effective March 4th through 7th in Philadelphia, Lancaster, Trenton, Wilmington and vicinities. We reserve the right to limit quantities.
